Census Enumerators Named, Instructed

25 MEN, WOMEN TO START WORK IN COUNTY AREA

District Clerk On Hand To Outline Program Beginning Tuesday

MUCH DATA IS SOUGHT

Appointees To Act Outside Own Districts Under Bureau Decree

As the 1940 decennial census is about to get under way on Tuesday, 25 enumerators were receiving their final instructions Monday from T. D. Krinn, clerk for the 11th Ohio District, at Memorial Hall.

Pickaway County was divided into 32 enumeration districts, but some were so small that it was thought best to combine several to equalize the task of counting.

The canvass is expected to be completed in Circleville in two weeks and the county totals should be finished at the end of 30 days.

Following orders issued by the Department of Commerce in Washington, enumerators in Circleville have not been assigned districts in which they live.

"Enumerators should be assigned, as far as practical, to enumerate districts other than the ones in which they reside. This procedure is desirable because, in general, most people will report the required information more readily to strangers than to persons whom they know," the order from Washington read.

Data in regard to population, agriculture and housing will be taken by the enumerators.

A. T. Hopwood, assistant superintendent at the Feeble-minded Institution at Orient, was selected to enumerate the institution which was designated as a separate enumeration district by the Bureau of Census.

Enumerators who will work in Pickaway County are as follows: Sylvia M. French Show Confidence In New Regime; Gift Edges Soaring

PARIS, April 1—The Paris Bourse boomed suddenly today with the majority of stocks gaining between two and ten percent.

Gilt-edged securities showed the greatest strength.

The bourse up-swing was a continuation of increases registered during the last week, due chiefly to increasing confidence in the new regime of Premier Paul Reynaud and to foreign diplomatic developments which are expected to set back Germany in this field.

OHIO DEATH TOLL AT LOW FIGURE DURING WEEKEND

By International News Service
Although the weather was ideal for driving, Ohio's weekend traffic toll was held to a minimum it appeared today as survey disclosed that at least two persons lost their lives in mishaps.

Newark's oldest practicing physician, Dr. J. C. Shiver, 65, was killed almost instantly when struck by an auto as he crossed the street to his office. Police questioned the driver of the car but did not arrest him.

An auto-pedestrian accident at Dayton resulted fatally for John Cheatham, 67-year-old unemployed waiter. Joseph Kruso, 26, was slightly injured when he was struck by a second car as he alighted from his machine after it struck Cheatham.

Twenty bus passengers and a motorist and his companion were injured in a collision at Stow. Joseph De Angel, 45, and Mrs. Albert Dix, 32, of Ravenna, occupants of the car, were in Akron City Hospital in serious condition. The bus passengers were not badly hurt. ### WOMAN HUNTED AS SUSPECT IN CO-ED'S DEATH

State College Authorities Hint That Teeth Marks Provide Indication

ALL ANGLES STUDIED

Search Made Of All Autos In Vicinity To Unearth Evidence

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 1—A new and sensational angle arose today in the Rachel Taylor sex slaying as it was reliably learned that Pennsylvania state police were considering the possibility that a woman may have been the brutal killer of the 17-year-old Wildwood, N. J., freshman.

It was the first time since the Taylor girl's stockily-built body was found half-naked on a lonely county school lane, savagely torn and mutilated last Thursday, that a theory involving other than a male murderer was advanced.

Miss Taylor, a shy, deeply religious co-ed, attended Pennsylvania State College.

Lieut. Norman Annich, of the state motor police, refused to confirm the report, but declared that "every angle is being investigated."

"There is a possibility of anybody doing it," he said. "That remains to be found. I'll not deny it (that the killer might have been a woman) but I won't verify it either."

Centre County Coroner Charles Scheider likewise was non-committal on the new angle, but admitted that it was not an improbability.

Robert Brown, East High Street, and Lloyd Jonnes, Jr., Park Place, were selected Monday as Circleville's representatives to the annual Buckeye Boys' State sponsored June 15-25 at the Ohio State Fairgrounds. Frank Fischer, superintendent of schools and a member of the Legion post as well as of Rotary, is chairman of the committee which selected the boys.

Several other Legion posts of the Seventh Ohio district are planning to send youngsters to the Buckeye Boys' State. James Dickey post, Portsmouth, will finance seven; Russel D. ### U. S. MAY PROBE HIGH OFFICIALS

Justice Department Hints Corruption Similar To Louisiana's

WASHINGTON, April 1—A searching inquiry into the affairs of a number of high state officials in Pennsylvania, Michigan and New Jersey is contemplated by the federal government, it was learned on excellent authority today.

This investigation is a continuation of the Justice Department's campaign against graft and corruption, which resulted in the indictments of a number of state administration leaders in Louisiana recently.

A preliminary study of the Michigan situation already is under way, it was stated.

Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge, head of the Justice Department's criminal division met today with John C. Lehr, U. S. attorney for the eastern district of Michigan. Rogge declined to discuss his meeting with Lehr.

The latter is in Washington attending the annual conference of all U. S. attorneys at the Department of Justice. These officials are going over various law enforcement problems with Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and department aides.

In the forthcoming investigations in Michigan, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the government is expected to use the same technique it employed in the Louisiana inquiry.

This means that there is a strong possibility that a number of mail fraud indictments will be sought.

Reliable sources explained that a close perusal of the income tax returns by state officials in Louisiana gave federal investigators numerous "leads" which served as the basis for bringing action against officials for mail fraud.

It was conceded that there is little likelihood that the three-state inquiry will develop income tax irregularities.

Nevertheless, the tax returns filed by a number of state officials in these areas are being subjected to close scrutiny. It was a similar study in Louisiana that developed mail fraud evidence there.

SUITOR MURDERS MAN DISCOVERED WITH HIS FRIEND

NEWTON, N. J., April 1—Charged with the killing of a former Sunday School teacher whom he had trapped in a mountain cabin near Newton, N. J., with his 20-year-old sweetheart, Leonard Dubee, 28, a Bronx, N. Y., apartment house superintendent, awaited arraignment today in court.

The victim was Richard C. Schween, 34, a well-to-do plumber of the Bronx who had often helped Dubee by giving him jobs, according to mutual friends.

DRIVE TO DISCREDIT F. D. R. LAUNCHED BY GERMANS, RUSSIANS

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
The diplomatic battle that Germany started by publishing last week's white book picturing the United States as fostering Europe's war is by no means over.

That point appeared virtually certain today when International News Service in Washington learned from an authoritative senate source that the American government has evidence of Russo-German cooperation in a propaganda campaign to discredit President Roosevelt at home and abroad.

This source said the German white book is only one of a series of attacks planned against the President. Berlin dispatches on Saturday forecast even more sensational German charges against the President.

An indication that the entire affair may develop into an international verbal slugging match, with Germany and the United States trading punches toe to toe, was seen in a reliable prediction from Washington that federal agencies have collected evidence regarding the German charges.

Proper Time Awaited
A responsible official said that this evidence may be made public "at the appropriate time."

London, too, seemed to be heading into more diplomatic fistfights as London dispatches (Continued on Page Two)

Youngsters Enjoying Sunday Ride Victims Of Seattle Crash

AVIATRIX, 29, DIES

Gas Tank Explodes Halting Rescue Attempts

SEATTLE, Wash., April 1—A mass of scorched, twisted wreckage was probed by inspectors for the Civil Aeronautics Authority today to determine the cause of a Sunday plane crash which killed Miss Cora Sterling, 29-year-old aviatrix, and four joy-riding children.

The children were Janet, 8, and Charlene Taylor, 5, daughters of King County Commissioner Jack Taylor, and Allen Taylor, 14, and James Taylor, 9, nephews of the commissioner.

Miss Sterling, the first woman to hold a transport pilot's license in Washington, took off with the young quartet in a single motored four-passenger plane owned by John C. Stevenson, prominent Seattle attorney and former county commissioner.

After 15 minutes in the air, Miss Sterling lowered the ship to an altitude of about 500 feet over Boeing Field, the King County airport. It appeared at first she was leveling off for a landing.

Suddenly, however, the plane side slipped, then it crashed full speed into a packed sawdust pile across the highway from the landing field.

The impact was so terrific that the nose of the plane was buried five feet. The gasoline tank exploded and set fire to the wreckage, preventing rescue efforts. Only after more than an hour were the cremated bodies of the five victims removed.

Stevenson collapsed as he stood with the helpless rescue squad at the scene.

Miss Sterling was described by acquaintances as a "woman ace," having flown planes throughout the Northwest for more than 11 years.

TWO KILLED, 125 ESCAPE FLAMES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 1—Two unidentified women were burned to death, and at least five other persons were injured—one critically—when fire swept through an apartment house a few blocks from the White House today.

More than 125 residents of the three-story, 40-apartment building were roused by the blaze, which brought fire equipment from all sections of the capital in response to five alarms.

The flames were brought under control, and firemen began searching the smoldering structure for bodies of other persons possibly trapped by the fire.

Michael Jones, 50, was reported dying in Emergency Hospital from a fractured skull sustained when he leaped from a third-floor window in attempting to escape from the flaming building. His wife, Mary, 38, who also jumped, was treated for back injuries.

Elizabeth Manley, 40, was burned about the face, arms and legs when she dashed back into her flaming apartment to rescue a five-weeks old puppy. Joseph James, 38, and his wife, Miriam, 34, suffered minor burns.

Smoking Prohibited After Water From Dike Sweeps Into Stored Fuel

JAMES' TOWN IMPERILED

Six Deaths Reported From West Coast; Streams Go Down In Some Regions

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 1—A leaking gasoline storage tank and a broken dike at nearby Kingston threw thousands of people into a panic today when its inflammable contents rapidly spread over the waters of the flood-filled Susquehanna River.

Cause of the leak was not immediately established but it was believed water swirling from the hole in the dike had seeped beneath the foundation causing the tank to sag and break.

Authorities in Wilkes-Barre, Kingston, and Edwinstown prohibited smoking as the gasoline blanketed the water and released fumes that could be smelled for more than a mile.

BELGRADE, April 1—Low-lying districts of Belgrade were evacuated today as swollen waters of the Danube River attained a record high—23 feet above normal—flooding railway stations and warehouses in the capital.

Residents evacuated scores of villages along the river's path. Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic made an aerial tour of the flooded areas in preparation for emergency relief measures.

ed river, which inundated several points in South Wilkes-Barre, Plymouth, the home of Gov. Arthur H. James; West Nanticoke and Hanover Township to a depth of several feet, receded two-hundredths of an inch.

Officials were quick to point out, however, that the slight decline was not indicative that the river had started to drop. They pointed out that in an earlier flood, the river dropped several inches from 29 feet and then rose to 33 feet.

Refugees Crowd Hotels
Hotels in Wilkes-Barre were crowded with people who fled their homes.

Many neighborhood stores were closed, throwing an added burden on food stores situated on higher ground.

The flood waters were reported menacing the city's gas supply and preparations were being made for emergency shipments if the stream goes higher.

WOMAN HUNTED AS SUSPECT IN CO-ED'S DEATH

State College Authorities Hint That Teeth Marks Provide Indication

The body were small. They argued also that Miss Taylor would not have been afraid to accept a "lift" from a woman motorist at 1:30 in the morning.

Earlier, the picture of a maniacal motorist deliberately running down the Taylor girl and later savagely mutilating her body was projected into the case.

Virtually at a standstill in their hunt for the murderer of the stockily built Wildwood, N. J., freshman, police made an all-day search of automobiles in the vicinity of State College in an attempt to find bloodstains, clothing, or anything else on the underpinnings that might lead to identification of the slayer.

Col. Lynn G. Adams, commissioner of the state motor police, declared he was "convinced the murderer ran down the girl with his automobile." No trace of the automobile has been found. Tire abrasions, Adams disclosed, were found under the right thigh of the Taylor girl.

The latest state police theory suffered, however, from the assertions of two young men that they saw Miss Taylor stop in front of a garage a half block from her dormitory, switch her bag and coats from arm to arm, and proceed across the street.

Would Have Heard Thud

They likewise insisted that an automobile moved down the street a few minutes later, but had it struck Miss Taylor it appeared doubtful that they would not have heard at least a thud of car meeting body, if not a scream.

The only other possibility appeared to be that Miss Taylor accepted a ride, was taken to a remote spot, and, resisting the advances of her companion, attempted to jump out of the car, only to be run down by her attacker.

Meanwhile, a citizens' committee, comprised of more than 50 prominent State College residents, gave Nagle P. Young, 33-year-old heating engineer, completely exonerated last night of any connection with the crime, a vote of confidence.

An open letter to Young, published in the Center Daily Times, State College's newspaper, declared that "the confirmation of your innocence and freedom from suspicion in the relation to crime in this community gives great satisfaction to those who have known you personally in any way."

pressed intensification on the anti-German blockade with special reference to iron ore shipments moving to Germany through territorial waters of neutral Norway.

The London News Chronicle shouted that Britain is "going to stop" this traffic and that it "no longer will be tolerated, even if stoppage involves some technical infringements of international law."

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is expected to reveal an outline of the Allied plans before the House of Commons tomorrow, and it is believed they will include rationing of goods imported by Germany's neutral neighbors.

Actual warfare was confined chiefly to the air. Berlin announced that seven French planes were shot down in three aerial combats over the Western Front, while no German planes were lost. Berlin also stated that the Reich air force carried out reconnaissance flights from eastern France to the Shetland Islands without suffering losses. But London believed that two German planes had been damaged so seriously to return to their home bases.

Arms Drive Begins

Soviet Russia launched a huge arms expansion program with announcement of a defense budget for 1940 of about $11,500,000,000. At the same time a new Soviet Republic was created, covering coastal Finnish territory and the Russian Karelian region.

In reply to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's announcement that the United States would not recognize the new Japanese-sponsored Wang Ching-Wei regime in China, a Japanese government spokesman threatened that Nippon might refuse to "cooperate" with the United States.

The Japanese news agency accused America of obstructionist tactics and "distorting the objectives of the holy war" in China.

Authorities said the blaze started when the father tried to kindle a fire with gasoline.

A recent litter of pure-bred pigs produced 22 live animals for their owner.

reached their crests last night and began falling.

Six deaths on the West Coast were attributed to the storm. Four persons died in up-state New York.

Two small boys were drowned in Michigan. One death was reported in Wilkes-Barre. Four persons were trapped and drowned in western Pennsylvania.

Red Cross officials were supervising the evacuation of between 1,500 and 2,000 persons in low-lying sections of the Wyoming Valley at Wilkes-Barre where the Susquehanna reached 27.42 feet above the low water mark last night.

Twelve huge self-bailing boats were dispatched from New York to Wilkes-Barre by the coast guard. A coast guard plane took off from New York yesterday to survey the flood area but was unable to land because the Wilkes-Barre field was water-logged and returned.

At Pittsburgh, the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers reached a crest of 28.53 feet last night, more than three feet over the 25 foot flood stage, and then began receding. Only nominal damage by slight flooding of low-lying sections was caused.

Other Streams Fall

Other streams in western Pennsylvania similarly rose to flood levels and then began slowly receding.

Thousands of families in Wilkes-Barre and the nearby communities of Plymouth, home of Gov. Arthur H. James, and Nanticoke, Edwardsville and Breslau were thrown into panic by the rising Susquehanna. The river rose more than 18 feet in 24 hours yesterday. The scenes were reminiscent of the 1936 flood when the Susquehanna reached a stage of 33 feet, 20,000 persons were marooned and $10,000,000 in property damage was caused.

Wilkes-Barre residents were warned to be ready to leave on short notice. Several hundred families were evacuated in boats and housed in public buildings last night. Many moved their furniture to upper floors. Business men worked all day removing their stocks to safe quarters.

Flood Issue At Polls

New damage was threatened in Williamsport, Pa., by the Susquehanna on the eve of a special election on a $175,000 bond issue for flood control.

Low-lying houses were flooded at Scranton, Pa.

At Johnstown, the "flood city," the Conemaugh and Stony Creek rivers, reached a crest of 16 feet and four inches and then receded. Business district basements were flooded.

Southern New York was temporarily threatened with grave danger but the streams began receding after reaching near flood levels. The southern section of Syracuse was flooded by Onondaga Creek. Several families were rescued in row boats. Traffic was closed in 20 city blocks. Three bridges at Binghamton were closed by the rising waters of the Susquehanna and Chenango Rivers.

EAST LANSING, Mich., April 1—Dragging of the flooded Red Cedar River for the bodies of two Lansing boys who drowned Saturday was continued today.

Eight Ingham County deputies and state police were thrown into the rushing waters when their rowboats capsized. One of the deputies, Jerry Allen, 41, is in an oxygen tent in St. Lawrence Hospital fighting threatened pneumonia.

The boys—Thomas Devereaux, 10, and James Prescott, 9—lost their lives while playing near the swollen stream on their way home from a hike.

PLEA IS VOICED AGAINST SLASH IN WPA ACCOUNT

WASHINGTON, April 1—An appeal for an emergency appropriation to prevent further reduction of WPA rolls during May and June was made today by Rep. Cochran (D) Mo.

He made his appeal as Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, put into effect a 200,000 reduction in WPA for the month of April. Cochran said that $38,000,000 was needed to prevent further cuts May 1.

FLEET GOES TO SEA

SAN PEDRO, Cal.—Like a giant unshackling for the fray, the heavy-gunned United States fleet, defender of all the Americas, quietly shook loose from its moorings today for the start of its 1940 war games.

Cincinnati said there was no immediate flood danger.

Unless there are additional heavy rains, the river was expected to reach a crest Thursday or Friday somewhat under the flood stage, which averages 50 feet. The river is now about six or eight feet above normal.

MARTINS FERRY, O., April 1—Flooded by swollen mountain streams in Pennsylvania, the Ohio River at Martins Ferry reached a 36-foot flood stage at 7 a. m. today. Observers predicted that the stream would reach a 38-foot crest at noon.

54 PUPILS TAKE EXAMINATIONS OF SCHOLARSHIP

Papers Sent To Columbus For Final Checking By State Office

TEAM TESTS ARRANGED

County Students To Meet Saturday To Vie For Positions

Fifty-four students, including ten from Circleville High School, took the General Scholarship Examination at Circleville High School Saturday. The examination, comprehensive in its coverage of mathematics, science, American history, world history, literature and current events, was open to all the seniors of the county schools.

With the tests having been sent to the Department of Examinations in Columbus where they will be graded by machines, the county students are now looking forward to the Selection Examinations that will be conducted at the high school at 9 a. m. Saturday, April 6.

Each of the 12 high schools in the county is eligible to send two students to compete in each of the 20 examinations which will cover only one subject. A team of 40 students, the highest two in each subject, will then be selected to represent the county at the district scholarship examination at Columbus on May 4.

May Take Two Tests

Students may take two examinations at the tests to be given at Circleville, but may be entered in only one subject at the May 4 examinations at Ohio State in May.

The subjects which will be in the schedule of tests for next Saturday are biology, chemistry, general science, physics, algebra, plain geometry, American history, world history, ninth year English, tenth year English, eleventh year English, twelfth year English, first year Latin, second year Latin, first year French, second year French, bookkeeping one typing one, shorthand one and shorthand two.

Following the grading of the examinations at the university, the county superintendents will select a team of 32 for the regular subjects and eight for the commercial subjects to make a team of 40 to compete in the district tests.

The schedule of rooms and teachers for the tests Saturday is as follows: 9 a. m. to 10 a. m.: Latin two, Mr. Bennett, room 202; typing one, Mr. Cress, room 203; English one, two, three and four, Mr. Higley, Mr. Connell, Mr. Strous, and Mrs. Smith, room 204; Latin one, Miss DeMuth and Miss Marshall, room 205; chemistry, Mr. Broyles, room 209; physics, Mr. Canup, room 209; general science, Mr. Costlow, room 210; biology, Mr. Johnson, room 210; algebra, Mr. Hansen, room 211; plain geometry, Mr. Florence, room 211; bookkeeping one, Miss Jackson, room 212; world history, Mr. Boyer, room 213; American history, Mr. Francis, room 214.

The same schedule will be followed during the 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. period for those students who are taking two examinations. The student may choose which he prefers to take first. During the second period shorthand one will be given in room 203 under Mr. Cress and short hand two will be given in room 212 under Miss Ryan.

A battery of four tests, English, American history, science and mathematics, will make up the Eighth Year Test which will be held at six centers in the county at 9 a. m. Friday, April 19. County awards will be given to those who rank in upper 25 percent and state awards will be received by those who are in the top one percent in the state.

Axis Powers Drive to Keep Neutrals Neutral

Total of County Blind In Ohio's Middle Group

Pickaway County falls into the middle bracket of Ohio counties that have dependent blind on the rolls of those registered for public assistance, Miss Virginia Smith, county supervisor of the department of public assistance, reported Monday.

With 40 persons listed as receiving aid because of blindness, the county falls far short of those in the state whose blind total is several hundred. The county is also far ahead of those who have less than 10 on their rolls.

The wide divergence of figures can be seen when statistics released recently by the state's department of public assistance show that Cuyahoga, Franklin and Hamilton Counties have 370, 293 and 263 respectively. Fulton, Holmes and Medina Counties have three, six and six respectively. Since January 1, three new applicants were received, but the number of blind in the county has remained fairly constant since the beginning of 1939.

"We usually get as many new cases on our rolls as we lose," Miss Smith said. "Because we investigate the possible cases and don't wait until they are forced to apply out of sheer desperation as a last resort."

"Although the state set a maximum of $400 per year that the blind may receive in grants, there is no provision for a minimum. We have tried to divide the small funds that we have as equitably as possible according to the actual need of the blind," she continued. "Our average monthly grant to the blind is $16, but the range in grants varies from $5 per month to $30."

The number on blind aid in Pickaway County falls almost in the middle of numbers aided by the surrounding counties. Registered blind in the nearby counties are as follows: Ross, 63; Fayette, 62; Pickaway, 40; Fairfield, 32 and Hocking, 24.

"The majority of the causes of blindness in the county are unknown," Miss Smith said. "Other causes are due to cataracts, diseases and accidents. Only two persons that are receiving aid from the county were blind at birth."

SOVIET DEFENSE BUDGET SCORES NEW HIGH MARK

MOSCOW, April 1—Announcing a record-breaking 1940 defense budget of 57,000,000,000 rubles (about $11,500,000,000), Russia launched a huge expansion program today.

The budget was announced in the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) which created a new Soviet Republic—the 12th in the USSR—covering ceded Finnish territory and the Russian Karelian region.

The new defense estimates exceeded the 1939 appropriations by more than 40 percent, indicating Russia is making preparations to meet possible involvement in the European war. The entire general 1940 budget called for expenditures of 179,700,000,000 rubles.

Finance Commissar Zveriev told cheering deputies that Russia finances are sound and estimated revenue for the new fiscal year at 182,200,000,000 rubles, exceeding estimated expenditures by more than 2,000,000,000. The income tax rate will be increased for persons earning more than 600 rubles a month.

The Supreme Soviet unanimously adopted the law incorporating the ceded Finnish areas into the USSR and joining them to Soviet Karelian districts in the new "Karelian-Finnish Federal Soviet Socialist Republic" with an estimated population of approximately 1,500,000.

The new republic theoretically will have equality with the 11 others in the USSR. It will be entitled to its own autonomous parliament and cabinet and to proportionate representation in the Supreme Soviet. Finnish will be the official language of the new republic.

WRITE-IN LOOMS FOR STATE JOB

Republican Committee Said To Be Against Selection Of Cincinnati Man

COLUMBUS, April 1—The Republican State Central committee today considered the feasibility of sanctioning a write-in campaign in an attempt to defeat Edward J. Hummel of Cincinnati, who is alone as a candidate for the Republican nomination for secretary of state following the death of Earl Griffith.

Griffith, 52-year-old Secretary of State and Mt. Gilead publisher who died Saturday after suffering a heart attack in his office a week ago, was a candidate for reelection.

As the filing deadline for candidates has passed, a write-in candidate remains the only possible chance of defeating Hummel, constantly at odds with the state organization, for the Republican nomination.

Both Governor Bricker and State Chairman Ed D. Schorr were reported as favoring such a candidate, but the organization was hampered by lack of a suitable possibility.

Meanwhile, Governor Bricker was to lead a delegation of state officials and other high Republicans to the funeral services for Griffith at Mt. Gilead, scheduled for this afternoon at 2:30.

Tomorrow, Bricker will ask the opening session of the state-wide party rally in Columbus to propose a candidate for appointment to the post until the November election, when a short-term secretary of state will be elected to serve until January, when the official elected for 1941-1942 will take office.

The choice of an appointee was believed to lie among Thomas E. Bateman, Columbus, clerk of the Ohio Senate; George Neffner, veteran statistician in the secretary of state's office; John G. Belknap, assistant secretary of state; and Arthur Hamilton, Lebanon, former speaker of the Ohio House.

MOORE, TWELVETREES

Victor Moore, supported by Helen Twelvetrees and John Beal, will be heard Wednesday, April 3, 9 p. m., CBS, when the Star Theatre presents "Alias the Deacon," a comedy by John B. Hymer and LeRoy Clemens. As hero of the play, Moore portrays a card sharp whose clerical appearance gives him the nickname of "Deacon." When he drops off the brake rods of a box car and lands in a small midwestern town, the Deacon knicks the bridgeplaying ladies for plenty of small change, teaches the wisecracks something about poker, and wins back the $2500 note the Widow Clark has given the village Shylock. The Deacon plays cupid for Miss Twelvetrees and Mr. Beal and after making life pleasant in general for a number of people, merrily hops a freight while the Sheriff's back is conveniently turned. On the Hollywood end of the program, Ken Murray, Kenny Baker, Frances Langford and Irene Ryan will be heard.

BUILDING OF NOAH'S ARK
Starting Wednesday, April 3,

over NBC at 2 p. m. "Light of the World," the new daytime radio program based upon the Bible, will begin the episode of Noah building the ark.

Noah will be played by Ed Jerome, and the other roles will be enacted as follows: Ham, Chester Stratton; Shem, Bartlett Robinson; Jepheth, Ted Reid; Mother Noah (Noah's wife), Charmee Allen; Renah, Gertrude Werner.

RADIO NOTES

Kay Kyser continues merrily on his record-smashing tour and the latest attendance record to succumb to his music is that at Atlantic City's Steel Pier where the Professor of "College of Musical Knowledge" attracted 25,000 people on Easter Sunday. Kay's April dates include Lions Club, Providence (5); Charity Temple, Troy (6) and Auditorium, Worcester (7).

Ezra Stone's biography is in Felix B. Streyckman's new book, "Today's Young Men." Stone, star of "The Aldrich Family," has his entire career traced in the story.

"What's My Name?" gets another 13-week ride, its third, starting May 3, on NBC-Red Fridays.

Sponsor of "Hobby Lobby," which fades next month, may remain on the air with a daytime show through spring and summer.

Hold your hats, pals, another quiz show is on the way. This one's "So You Think You Know Sports," a 30-minute stanza with Clem McCarthy the quizmaster. A sister series, "So You Think You Know Music" is now on CBS and will be willed the Orson Welles 8 o'clock Sunday spot when the Bogey Man retires from the scene.

Horace Heidt's "Pot o' Gold" troupe has joined the cheering section for "Buck Benny Rides Again" music to make "Say it," and "My! My!" on wax.

The "Johnny Presents" show ran a minute overtime last week at rehearsal so Rush Hughes, the "Hugestrel" man and Bandleader Johnny Green flipped a coin to see who would do the cutting. Hughes won and Green sliced a minute from his music.

Nan Rae and Maude Davis, comedy team, heard on the air for the first time on the Kate Smith Hour, are due for more radio breaks and possibly several additional periods with Kate.

NEW YORK, April 1—William P. Buckner, Jr., the playboy stockbroker, is going to prison a married man.

The secret bride is Adelaide Moffett, the society singer, who blushing admitted they had slipped off to Danville, Va., last February 8 for the nuptials. She is the daughter of James A. Moffett, former Federal Housing Administrator, and heiress to a Standard Oil fortune.

Buckner, often linked romantically with Loretta Young, the film star, was in the federal house of detention today awaiting transfer to a federal penitentiary for 18 months. He and two others were convicted of swindling holders of Philippine railroad bonds.

We all wish to thank and congratulate you for the courtesy and respect that you showed us as strangers. Very Sincerely yours, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carder, Lancaster, O."

"Advertising Gives You Better Gas for Less Money"

"You see that gas pump? Well, every gallon of gas coming out of that pump is good; and what's more, you know it's good. That's largely because the company whose gas I sell advertises. That company has developed a reputation for selling a product of high quality. It has improved its product from time to time, and has told you about the improvements through advertising... Today, you know that you can go into any gas station where that company's sign appears and get the standard products—of the same high quality that it is in every other station selling that gasoline. Now, that's confidence, and you have it because the company's name and reputation for selling a sound product is known to you, and is constantly kept before you, by advertising... Nowadays, your gas costs you about a penny a mile, probably less than that. Do you think you could get good gasoline so cheap if there wasn't any advertising done by motor car and gasoline companies, by chambers of commerce, resorts, and other advertisers to make you want to go places and see things? I don't think so, Mister—that wouldn't make sense to me."

BAD YEAR FOR BETTING

THERE is a curious air of unreality about all these straw votes and guesses and arguments about the presidential campaign. An onlooker gets an impression somewhat as if he were standing between two trains moving in opposite directions, while trying to see around the next block and through a brick wall.

The "dope" is mostly unconvincing. The opinion-sampling so far may prove worthless in actual terms of nomination and election. Too many of the factors are not yet known—not only the President's plans, but those of some other important personages, and the war in Europe, the Asiatic problem, the probable trend of business through the summer, and so on.

It seems likely to be a year of stirring drama. But not a very good year for betting money on anything.

FRIENDS OF THE LAND

A NEW organization, calling itself tentatively "Friends of the Land," is a non-profit, non-partisan association working for conservation. Among its sponsors are such familiar leaders as Stuart Chase, J. N. Darling, Dr. Einstein and Charles E. Beard, renewing a movement started by Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot a generation ago.

"We have talked a great deal about conservation," explains the chairman of the group. "We have barely begun to do something about it in a large, sensible and connected way. The need to do more is urgent."

The government has given conservation a prominent place in its program, but has been able to do little more than make a start in the right direction. The Friends of the Land believe that there is a job here for private citizens along with government. The people themselves, all over the country, need to understand the "essential unity of soil, water, forest, game and human problems which are so coordinated as to advance as one."

The converse is perhaps true also, and they retreat as one. "Soil displacement is followed by human displacement," in city as well as country. It may be too late to restore some of the destroyed regions, as it is too late to restore the vanished wild life. But other resources are threatened which, by prompt action, can be saved and improved. "Friends of the Land" are making it their business to interest all of us in this task.

The nations now are fighting over oil, but there isn't enough of it to pour on the troubled waters.

Canada will pay for all this cold weather. If or when summer comes, America will be glad just to stay at home and enjoy the warmth.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles F. Stewart

IN A CURIOUS fashion Germany's reaction to Undersecretary Sumner Welles' European tour, at the present stage of the current Old World war, has resembled its reaction to Henry Ford's peace tour, rather early in 1914-18 World conflict.

That is to say: At the time the Ford-ites sailed from Hoboken, the Kaiser already had had considerably the best of the land fighting on his side of the Atlantic and was disposed to come to terms—on his own conditions, of course. I don't imagine that he had any notion of making peace permanently, but it probably seemed to him like a good opportunity, if available, to stop for awhile and consolidate his position.

And, being a humorless cuss, he didn't recognize what a joke the Ford crew was, and had 'em received in all seriousness. Today, Herr Hitler surely did have the best of the grabbing before actual hostilities broke out, and perhaps now he's willing to wait a bit until he's digested his previous grabs before going ahead with the rest of his program. He's in much the same fix (at the same advantage and in the same danger) as the Kaiser 24 years ago.

Anyhow, that's the conclusion to be drawn from utterly unreliable reports of chats between Welles and Hitler, Minister von Ribbentrop, Marshal Goeding, Herr Goebbels, Hans Dieckhoff and other Berlin notabilities.

BACK IN 1916

But to get back to Henry Ford. The Washington state department wasn't fooled in the least by that expedition. It refused to grant passports to expeditionaries through any belligerent territory. Germany, however, had a vague hunch that the so-called "peaceers" might have some real temporary peace in their systems. There were two ways for them to get home, by way of Denmark to Holland—via the North Sea, infested by U-boats, or by land, right through comparatively safe, passportless Germany.

"By all means," said the Germans, "travel our way"—and we did, passportless. They were just as nice as they could be, and talked peace to us clear from Warnemunde to Bentheim, on the Dutch frontier. But after they'd looked at us they knew how crazy we were. They gave us up as a bad job. We had with us a small delegation of Danish, Swedish and Norwegian "peaceers" who wanted to go home from Holland the way they'd come. The Germans wouldn't pass THEM back. When the rest of us sailed for the United States from Rotterdam, those poor Scandies were left to stay forever in Holland or risk the North Sea with its mines and things.

WIDE OPEN COMMUNICATIONS

It goes without saying that Undersecretary Welles' communications will have been wide open, not to mention his reports on his return.

How candid these folks will have been isn't altogether the question, either. They may have meant what they said. The Undersecretary's conclusions will have had a lot to do with it. The negotiation has been awfully secret up to date. We'd like to know what the undersecretary THINKS. It isn't too soon to ask for "open diplomacy openly arrived at," anyway.

The Ford Peace Tour isn't altogether to be disregarded. It was a joke. But!!! I want to know. I think he was a fish. And yet?

BOOSTED WPA WINS FDR

WASHINGTON—The inner circle advocates of a $1,500,000,000 WPA budget have won their fight in the White House.

They have convinced Roosevelt that his original $1,000,000,000 estimate was too low, and he has authorized WPA Administrator Harrington to tell the House Appropriation Committee that the President now favors an additional half billion—which would bring the WPA budget up to this year's level.

Harrington appears before the committee today (Monday). In addition to the confidential Roosevelt message, he will give the committee an economic report showing a marked decline in business since January 1 and a heavy increase in unemployment. According to Harrington's figures, the demand for relief is greater now than at any time since the winter of 1938.

Two influences won over Roosevelt. One was Mayor LaGuardia of New York, who painted a very colorful economic picture and told him the cities could not increase their relief loads, that the Federal Government must handle the problem. The other was a confidential Treasury report on the recent income tax payments.

The figures showed around $100,000,000 more than Treasury estimates, for a total of $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 over 1939 receipts.

Strongly economy minded, Secretary Morgenthau was keeping this information secret, for fear that if it leaked out the spenders would gobble up the excess. But the inner circle got wind of the cache and used it as a trump card to win over Roosevelt on the WPA issue.

UNINFORMED

You know just as much as Mrs. Roosevelt does about the President's plans regarding a third term. She has no idea what he will do, has not discussed the matter with him and does not intend to. "That's a decision," she says, "that a man must make for himself."

NOTE—In a chat with an old friend during his illness last week, Roosevelt gave a possible clue to his trend of thought in this reflective observation: "Teddy tried for a third term but couldn't make it."

SILENT JACK

During the 1939 battle over the original Hatch bill, barring federal employees from political activity, Vice President Garner issued his first statement on a legislative issue. Said he to newsmen, "You can quote me as saying that this bill will pass."

But during the bitter two-weeks battle over the latest Hatch bill, extending the politics ban to state machines, Garner said not one word, spent little time in the chair during the debate, while a number of his closest cronies were in the van in the effort to defeat the measure.

NOTE—Since the inclusion of the Senate amendment limiting political contributions to $5,000, the Hatch bill is now referred to in congressional cloakrooms as the "You-Can-Sin-Up-To-Five-Grand" bill.

Fibrositis Arrives With Spring Flowers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE, IN America, have been pampered pets of Nature for a number of years. We have had about 15 years of unusually mild and temperate winters all over the country. But this spring, with a severe winter behind us, we may begin to see examples of the English disease, fibrositis, or painful nodules.

It has not been reported very often in American literature, and I think there is no doubt that it has some relation to cold climates and severe weather. It is by no means unknown in the northern states and in Canada.

The painful nodules occur anywhere under the skin; they may be in the muscles. Favorite places are along the neck, in the edge of the big triangular muscle that goes from the back of the head to the point of the shoulder; in the lumbar muscles of the back; in front in the breast and abdominal muscles. The nodules are painful and cause muscle spasm. They are often found in the course of massage.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Trapezius Myositis

That triangular muscle which forms a sheet along the back of the neck from the promontory of the hind part of the skull to the corner of the shoulder, the trapezius muscle, is the seat of an affection that is called trapezius myositis. (Myositis means muscle inflammation.)

It is a hangover in spring from a long siege of catarrh or infection of the nose and throat. There is pain noticed on turning the head or extending the neck. With fatigue of the muscles of the neck, there is apt to be headache in the back of the head. Tenderness can be elicited at the point of insertion of the muscle at the shoulder and back of the head.

Treatment consists, first, of free drainage of the nasal sinuses.

Another special form of fibrositis is panniculitis, which consists of painful spots in the fat of the abdomen, upper arm, upper leg, knees and calves. The typical sufferer is a middle-aged woman of pasty appearance. The skin is thickened and bound down so that it cannot be picked up as usual. Besides heat and massage, small amounts of thyroid extract are often beneficial.

Heat as Treatment

In treatment of any form of fibrositis, heat takes an important place. It is especially valuable because it can be given at home, by the household doctor. It may be moist or dry heat—mustard poultice, hot moist compresses, electric pad, hot bricks, hot iron, applied over a folded towel or flannel.

The best and most effective treatment is by massage. The fibrous nodules can be broken up and massaged away by a special type of heavy stroking and kneading massage, which is applied directly to the nodules. It produces subsequent relief, although it may be painful at the time. The patient should know the nature of the condition and be aware that the treatment will at first cause more pain, but that subsequent treatments will be less painful and eventually result in the disappearance of the nodules.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. J. E. M.: "I have a five-year-old boy who has been troubled with asthma for the past three years. Do you think he can be cured?"

Answer—Asthma in children is almost always of a simple sort, uncomplicated by infection and due to sensitiveness to food or dust or animal dandruff. Perhaps a pet, such as a cat or dog or a parrot, causes it; or rabbits. Perhaps some food or combination of foods is the cause. The proper course to pursue is to have an examination made by a man who practices allergy and who will be able to study his sensitiveness to various foods, dusts, etc. Children usually grow out of childhood asthma at about the age of nine or 10 years, but this time can be shortened by proper treatment. Asthma in older people is usually complicated by infection and much harder to eradicate.

THE KILLER SPEAKS

RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

BELZER refused to describe any further what it was he had discovered in the lower story of the old warehouse. "I'm not even sure I'll mention it in the paper tomorrow morning," he said. "This is something the police have got to look into first." He started the boat at last.

"Then you reporters do work with the police sometimes?" "Sometimes? What do you mean? I'm the best little detective they've got."

"Where do we go now?" "Belzer headed the motorboat downstream. 'To the inquest,' he said. 'And remember, if the reporters question you, you don't remember.'"

I'd forgotten the inquest. I wondered what the coroner would have thought if I had failed to show up. Lucky I had Belzer to keep me on the right side of the law, I decided. "You don't have to testify at the inquest," he told me. "You can stand on your constitutional rights. Have you talked to your lawyer about it?"

"My lawyer? Harvey McGuire—I was going to telephone him, and forgot!"

The reporter looked away and drew a long, deep breath. "When it comes to crime you're a babe in the woods."

"Is that why you think I am innocent, when the coroner is so sure I am mixed up in this?"

"You don't fit into my theory of the crime," Belzer told me.

"What is your theory?"

The reporter swung the boat toward the west side of the channel as we passed the Rio Vista club, so we would not be recognized by any of his rivals who might be on the job there. "In the first place," he said, "I believe a professional criminal had something to do with laying the plot, and you're no professional."

"Then you agree with Captain McDonald that it was planned in advance?"

"Yes, but I don't think it was planned to be a killing. My guess is that the guy who attacked Markham knew Markham would be alone in the garden about that time of night. So if we want to find out who that man is, we might first try to find out why Markham was out there. Who suggested going into the garden? Did you?"

"Why, why," I stammered, caught by surprise. "I don't know. I think we just went out to get some fresh air."

"Did he suggest it? Think?"

"I'm not certain. Yes, yes, come to think of it, he was going out, and I suggested that I go along with him. He didn't seem cordial. He made it plain that he wanted to be alone."

"And you went anyway? That's a point against you. But I'm not suspicious of you. I'd say he was going to meet someone out there and didn't want you to know it."

"He didn't say anything about a meeting," I protested.

"Naturally he wouldn't, if he didn't want you to know about it. How did he finally get you to go back into the clubhouse and leave him there?"

"We quarreled."

"Do you think he started the quarrel purposely—to get you to leave him?"

"I—I'm sure I can't answer that."

"Well, I'm pretty sure I can," Belzer said, swinging the boat in toward one of the city wharves. "I don't know anything against Markham. I understand he was a pretty swell fellow. But he had made a lot of money, so he must have been clever. He got you to go back into the clubhouse without actually telling you to go. He was going to make a deal with someone, with diamonds."

"My God, Belzer! Why didn't someone think of that before?" Belzer grimaced as he put the motor into reverse and eased the boat to its mooring. He cut the switch and the motor stopped. "Captain McDonald is working on that line," he said. "Come on. Let's call a cab."

He removed the small gadget from the magnet to again. We climbed the stone steps to the street level.

In the taxicab Belzer continued to explain his version of Markham's death.

"After you went into the clubhouse Markham stood in the rose arbor, looking up at the sky. It was almost time for his appointment. The sound of the piano and the singing as you opened the door may have covered the quiet footsteps that sneaked up behind him. Remember, also, that the lights strung across the garden overhead had been turned off a short time before—which also indicates a carefully thought out plan. The attacker intended to be a few minutes early, and to take Markham by surprise—because he had no intention of paying for the diamonds."

"Then it was a mistake to pick out a moonlight night for the crime," I suggested. "I should think he would have planned—"

"Not at all. Maybe the moonlight was bad for him, but he had to have the high tide. That's why he picked Tuesday night. He was going to kidnap Markham and take him by rowboat into that old warehouse, where the water is too shallow for a boat except at the highest tide. He'd leave no trail, and the police, even if they decided he got away by boat, wouldn't be likely to look into the warehouse. It's too close, and by the time they looked at it the next day the piles would be standing in mud, and they wouldn't think of it as a hiding place for a boat."

"Then the diamond sale was just a bait for something bigger?" "Maybe. Let me go on. If I got my dope straight, anyone sneaking into the rose arbor from the south would pass the stool before he came to Markham. I think the stool was used as a weapon, striking down to wrap around him, but it was thrown into the river."

"Markham fell where the croquet mallet lay. That's why there was blood on it. The police tested it to see if there was any hair sticking in the blood, as there ought to have been if he was hit over the head with the mallet. There wasn't."

"I'm learning things," I admitted.

"The guy who hit Markham probably had ropes in his boat, but the wire was handier. He tore it down to wrap around him, but Markham woke up too quick. Maybe he grabbed the mallet. The kidnaper had to knife him before he yelled for help."

"Why did he drag him along the walk instead of toward the river?"

"That's easy. He would have left a trail any other way. The gravel walk leads to the north wing of the building, where there's a sharp step, covered by the high tide Tuesday night. A flat bottom rowboat could have been brought right up against the step. Markham would have disappeared without a single footprint being left."

"You've thought of everything," I admitted.

Belzer shook his head. "Nope. There's something wrong. Why was Markham dragged instead of carried? If he was killed by the man who kidnapped him, he would have been carried. He was killed by a small man."

I had no answer for that. The taxicab stopped in front of a gray stone building. "Here we are," Belzer said. "I see more trouble waiting for you."

There were two young women on the step. I saw with a thrill of pleasure that one was Louise Markham. She colored slightly as I stepped toward her and removed my hat. She extended her hand. She couldn't smile at the inquest into her brother's death, but she made it plain she was glad to see me.

The other girl brushed past her and threw herself into my arms. "Oh, Bill dear!" sobbed Muriel Benson. "You've got to help me! I've just learned the most awful thing about Jerry!"

THE ACCENTS on femininity in today's picture. You'll see the drawing used cleverly this spring and, even more frequently, we predict, this summer. It may gather the folds of a frock into place in back, or, as in the wool jersey coat shown, hold the fullness in front. Today's Garden-Graph

Simple Guide for Seed Planting

As the seed is planted so will the plant incline should be a well memorized proverb of seed plant-ing. Certain types and sizes of seeds require certain procedure. Two right and one wrong way of planting seeds are shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

The correct depth for planting very fine seeds is shown in Figure 1. Seeds as small as one-thirty-second inch in size should only be planted four times as deep as their size or, in this case, one-eighth inch deep.

The correct spacing for seeds one-sixteenth of an inch in size is shown in Figure 2. In the case of seeds this size the correct depth of planting is one-fourth inch.

A very common gardening mis-take is illustrated in Figure 5—seeds planted in a drill but too closely together.

Clay or other heavy soil should not be used to cover seeds. In-stead sprinkle a light, friable soil over them. Use a soil which will not form a crust after being wa-tered. This is the objection to clay for this purpose.

GARDEN FILLERS

If you have cedar or juniper trees or bushes, cut off and burn all the "cedar apples" you can find. These are the swellings which, before growth starts, sug-gest bits of liver on the twigs, but afterwards resemble many fig-ured sponges. These "apples" are the "alternate stage" of apple rust, a disease which attacks the green parts of apple trees and injures the fruit.

About This And That In Many Sports

Basketball season will be wound up this week definitely when the annual class tournament will be conducted at the high school. . . Coach Roy Black hasn't said just when the event will be staged, but the understanding is that the teams representing the four classes will vie before the week is ended. . . Varsity lettermen have not yet elected an honorary captain for the cage year. . . This, too, may be done this week. . . Spring sports activity is lining up with the track team to start drills this week and the golf squad already in action. . . The track team should be a strong one with plenty of spring and field men available. . . The need for a track is the most vital question at hand****

There's talk going the rounds that efforts may be made to form a Circleville Booster Club with the development of athletics as its objective. . . It's done in many other places, so why not here, some of the persons back of the idea say. . . Circleville could use a Booster Club, since no effort has been made to organize an active alumni association****

Washington C. H. is trying to get two chestnuts into the fire at the same time, officials of the Blue Lion school filing an application with the Central Buckeye League for a place in that organization and at the same time retaining their South Central Ohio rights. . . Schools in the CBL of which Circleville is a former member include Delaware, Grandview, Bexley, Columbus Academy and Westerville. . . All of Washington's grid games, after the 1940 season, would be league affairs under the new program. . . The need has been cited for another team in the South Central Ohio with a couple of different schools being suggested, one of which is London****

The little bug has started to flit around for reorganization of the City Softball loop and just what will develop isn't known. . . Rumor has it that Cliff Miller, who operates Gold Cliff Park, is ready to put in a lighting system to promote night games if something similar is not done in Circleville. . . Sentiment among softball enthusiasts is that lights should be erected at the site of the proposed city park, but the folding cash necessary for the undertaking is sadly lacking. . . Some say the high school football team will play its games on the city park lot under lights that will be removed from the school property. . . This suggestion is considerably far-fetched, since much work would have to be done before the northfield would be suitable for football****

BEN HOGAN CONTINUES HIS GREAT GOLF GAME

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 1—Continuing his record-breaking pace, Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., today was 1940 winter golf's biggest money winner. He took the $1,200 first money yesterday in the $5,000 "Land of the Sky" open tournament.

Hogan, who got 69s on both his rounds yesterday, now has won $6,438 as compared with $6,152 so far this year for Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, Tex. It was Hogan's third straight major tournament championship.

Hogan's 72-hole total was 273. Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, got $750 second money with a 276. Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, Ill., won $550 with a 276, and Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., and John Bulla, Chicago, got $400 apiece with 280s.

NEW LEADERS ASSUME PLACES IN ABC MEET

DETROIT, April 1—New leaders today ruled three divisions in the American Bowling Congress tournament following the heaviest single bombardment of the 40th annual championships.

Outstanding performance was registered by John Taylor, 31-year-old Chester, Pa., printer, who chalked up 14 successive strikes in romping to the front in the singles with a 700—good enough to win all but seven of the past tournaments. He started his run by striking out from the fourth frame of his middle effort and then continued it through the first five sessions of his final.

Vincent Lamb and Ed Gramlich, Peoria, Ill., smashed their way to the top in the doubles, recording 1303. Albert Novak, of Upper Darby, Pa., paced the all-events contenders with 1870 for sixth place.

Louis Sets Record For Frightening Opponents

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, April 1—"I can't remember any man ever being afraid of me in a heavyweight championship fight," a puzzled Jack Dempsey said today adding a new note to the shouting and the tumult over the Joe Louis-Johnny Paychek title bout which by this time has been established among the major sports fiascos. Beneath it all, however, there is a growing suspicion that Louis will be remembered as the most feared fighter ever to step into the ring, with Dempsey's statement lending tacit corroboration. Dempsey was supposed to have been the most awful punch-thrower for foes to face.

Ever since Louis reached the top the most heated pugilistic argument has centered around the relative merits of the so-called Dark Destroyer and the old Manassa Man Mauler, with little progress made in the debate by either the pros or the cons. They'll never prove that one, but from the way Louis' opponents are going there finally will be no doubt as to which fighter was the all-time champion in starting epidemics of the jitters among his foes.

A half dozen of Louis' opponents, including Paychek last Friday night, have been converted into physical wrecks by the fright that caught hold of them as they waited through the final moments for the current champion to begin swinging on them. If he carried an axe it couldn't be much worse for them to contemplate.

"I don't understand it," Dempsey said. "If a man hasn't got confidence in himself, he doesn't belong in there, and as far as I know none of my opponents ever folded up on me from fright. No, I never did fear anybody either. I was always dead certain that I could win—even in my second fight with Gene Tunney."

As a matter of fact, nobody

YANKS IN REAL FORM

HOUSTON, Tex., April 1—The New York Yankees felt more like world champions today after bombarding the Houston Buffs 13 to 3 before a crowd of 14,594. The Yanks piled up six runs in the first innings. Buddy Rosar hit a homer; Red Rolfe a triple and two singles and Joe DiMaggio two two-baggers.

REDS TO MEET RED SOX

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 1—The Cincinnati Reds were to tangle again with the Boston Red Sox today after placing a beaming smile on Skipper Deacon McKeechie's face with a classy 3 to 2 win over the Sox yesterday at Birmingham, Ala. Paul Derringer and Gene Thompson allowed only four hits and the Reds played airtight ball affair.

LIEB TO FLORIDA

GAINESVILLE, Fla., April 1—Thomas J. ## WORLD RECORDS FALL AS STARS VIE IN GARDEN

Gregory Rice Of Notre Dame Outruns Lash And Maki

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, April 1—Although this is All Fools Day, we are not fooling when we say that the greatest middle distance runner in the world today is Gregory Rice of Notre Dame; that the greatest shot putter the world has ever seen is Al Blozis of Georgetown, and the finest hurdler to be found anywhere is Allan Tolmich, former Wayne University timber topper from Detroit.

These three proved their class before a capacity house in Madison Square Garden last night in the track meet of champions that saw world records fall before the amazing drive of the foregoing trio.

The barrel-chested little runner from Notre Dame proved that the Finns aren't the only race that can produce distance men when he ran the world-famed Taisto Maki into the ground and in doing so set new indoor world standards for the 2 1/4, 2 1/2 and 3-mile routes.

Rice clipped more than three seconds from his own three-mile record as he set the new mark at 13:52.3, beating Don Lash of Indiana by about 10 yards and Maki by fully 30 yards.

Maki set the pace for two miles and then was jumped by Lash, who soon fell back to third place as Rice insisted on holding the second spot no matter who led.

Nurmi Amazed

Two laps from the finish Rice tore ahead like a man running the century and as the crowd stood and roared he widened up a big gap on the Finn. Lash, too, put on a spurt to pass Maki and so they pounded over the finish while Paavo Nurmi, the old-time king of all distance men shook his head in puzzled amazement.

"That Rice is the greatest runner the world has ever seen," said Paavo today. "Maki is a wonderful runner and so is Lash. But that Rice—he's simply unbeatable because nobody can run away from him and he can always finish like a sprinter. It only goes to prove that America can produce distance runners just as easily as it does wonderful sprinters."

Tolmich smashed a 20-year old record by eight-tenths of a second when he galloped over the 70-yard high hurdles in 8.4 and then took two-tenths off the world's 50-yard low hurdle mark by topping the timbers in six seconds flat, with Frank Fuller of Virginia, Larry O'Connor of Toronto and Jay Shields of Yale finishing in that order behind him.

Blozis warmed up by coming close to his own world record with a heave of 55' 1" for the shot put and then fairly shattered all previous indoor and outdoor marks for the 12 lb. and 8 lb. shot puts by tossing them respectively 65' and 78' 1/2", adding almost five feet to the former mark and about eight feet to the latter.

Every event finished as predicted Saturday. Charley Belcher of Georgia Tech won the 500 special in 58.1 with Roy Cochran of Indiana, Bob Simmons of Nebraska and Dick Gill of Boston behind him.

John Borian of Virginia State nosed out Campbell Kane of Indiana in the three-quarters which was run in 3:08.6 and Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin overhauled Ralph Schwartzkopf of Michigan on the last lap to capture the 1 1/2-mile run in 6:39.4, the fastest time ever made for the distance in the garden, but not quite up to the world standard.

East Beats West

And the East beat the West by mere inches in the mile relay in 3:19.8, remarkably fast time for the garden track. Jack Sulzman and Frank Ohl built up a five yard margin over Dick Gill and Doug Raymond on the first two legs but Charley Belcher made all this up against Roy Cochran and Jim Herbert nipped Charley Beetham at the tape in a stirring finish.

Census Enumerators Named, Instructed

25 MEN, WOMEN TO START WORK IN COUNTY AREA

District Clerk On Hand To Outline Program Beginning Tuesday

MUCH DATA IS SOUGHT

Appointees To Act Outside Own Districts Under Bureau Decree

As the 1940 decennial census is about to get under way on Tuesday, 25 enumerators were receiving their final instructions Monday from T. D. Krinn, clerk for the 11th Ohio District, at Memorial Hall.

Pickaway County was divided into 32 enumeration districts, but some were so small that it was thought best to combine several to equalize the task of counting. The canvass is expected to be completed in Circleville in two weeks and the county totals should be finished at the end of 30 days.

Following orders issued by the Department of Commerce in Washington, enumerators in Circleville have not been assigned districts in which they live.

"Enumerators should be assigned, as far as practical, to enumerate districts other than the ones in which they reside. This procedure is desirable because, in general, most people will report the required information more readily to strangers than to persons whom they know," the order from Washington read.

Data in regard to population, agriculture and housing will be taken by the enumerators.

A. T. Hopwood, assistant superintendent at the Peble-minded institution at Orient, was selected to enumerate the institution which was designated as a separate enumeration district by the Bureau of Census.

Enumerators Listed

Enumerators who will work in Pickaway County are as follows: Sylvia M. Reid, West Corwin Street; Bess Henderson, West Ohio Street; Myrill Heiskell, East Union Street; Katherine Groom, West Ohio Street; Nina Bell Reid, South Pickaway Street; Harriet C. Mason, Watt Street; Mrs. Beulah M. Justus, East Mound Street; M. D. Reichelderfer, East Franklin Street.

William J. Goode, Route 4, Circleville; Vella LeMay, Ashville; John W. Smith, Williamsport; Marguerite E. Hoover, Ashville; Mrs. Jessie E. Courtright, Ashville; Curtis W. Hix, Mt. Sterling; Cecil M. Reid, Williamsport RFD.

A. S. Thomas, New Holland; Fred Dudson, Route 1, Circleville; Lawrence N. Spencer, Kingston, R. F. D.; Clark Cline, Ashville; H. E. Leist, Stoutsville; Harley D. Petheroff, Route 2, Circleville; Hedy Winfough, Darby; Henry F. Butt, Williamsport; Arthur T. Hopwood, Orient.

French Show Confidence In New Regime; Gilt Edges Soaring

PARIS, April 1.—The Paris Bourse boomed suddenly today with the majority of stocks gaining between two and ten percent.

Gilt-edged securities showed the greatest strength.

The bourse up-swing was a continuation of increases registered during the last week, due chiefly to increasing confidence in the new regime of Premier Paul Reynaud and to foreign diplomatic developments which are expected to set back Germany in this field.

Youths Named to Attend Boys' State of Legion

Robert Brown, East High Street, and Lloyd Jonnes, Jr., Park Place, were selected Monday as Circleville's representatives to the annual Buckeye Boys' State sponsored June 15-25 at the Ohio State Fairgrounds. The boys were chosen from the junior class, this procedure being mandatory under rules of the Buckeye Boys' State.

Alternates are Richard Brintlinger and Mark Coffland.

Expenses of the youths will be financed by Howard Hall post American Legion and the Rotary Club, each paying for one boy. Frank Fischer, superintendent of schools and a member of the Legion post as well as of Rotary, is chairman of the committee which selected the boys.

Several other Legion posts of the Seventh Ohio district are planning to send youngsters to the Buckeye Boys' State. James Dickey post, Portsmouth, will finance seven; Russell D. Wilson post, Portsmouth, will send four; Robert A. Smart post, Greenfield, three; Paul H. Hughey post, Washington C. H., three, and Ross County post, Chillicothe, one.

WOMAN HUNTED AS SUSPECT IN CO-ED'S DEATH

State College Authorities Hint That Teeth Marks Provide Indication

ALL ANGLES STUDIED

Search Made Of All Autos In Vi cinity To Unearth Evidence

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 1.—A new and sensational angle arose today in the Rachel Taylor sex slaying as it was reliably learned that Pennsylvania state police were considering the possibility that a woman may have been the brutal killer of the 17-year-old Wildwood, N. J., freshman.

It was the first time since the Taylor girl's stockily-built body was found half-naked on a lonely county school lane, savagely torn and mutilated last Thursday, that a theory involving other than a male murderer was advanced. Miss Taylor, a shy, deeply religious co-ed, attended Pennsylvania State College.

Lieut. Norman Annich, of the state motor police, refused to confirm the report, but declared that "every angle is being investigated."

"There is a possibility of anybody doing it," he said. "That remains to be found. I'll not deny it (that the killer might have been a woman) but I won't verify it either."

Centre County Coroner Charles Sheikler likewise was non-committal on the new angle, but admitted that it was not an improbability.

Teeth Marks Small

Those who thought a woman might have slain the girl cited the fact that teeth marks found on (Continued on Page Two)

Plane Falls, Kills Four Children

TERRIER BECOMES MOTHER TO TWO NEW-BORN PIGS

UPPER SANDUSKY, April 1.—Trixie, a rat terrier, played mother today to two new-born pigs at the Scott DeBolt home in nearby Bellevue.

The two pigs were taken from an overflow litter of 15 and given to Trixie in the hopes the dog would care for them. Her maternal instincts aroused, Trixie took the situation well in hand.

U. S. MAY PROBE HIGH OFFICIALS

Justice Department Hints Corruption Similar To Louisiana's

WASHINGTON, April 1.—A searching inquiry into the affairs of a number of high state officials in Pennsylvania, Michigan and New Jersey is contemplated by the federal government, it was learned on excellent authority today.

This investigation is a continuation of the Justice Department's campaign against graft and corruption, which resulted in the indictments of a number of state administration leaders in Louisiana recently.

A preliminary study of the Michigan situation already is under way, it was stated.

Assistant Attorney General O. John Rogge, head of the Justice Department's criminal division met today with John C. Lehr, U. S. attorney for the eastern district of Michigan. Rogge declined to discuss his meeting with Lehr.

The latter is in Washington attending the annual conference of all U. S. attorneys at the Department of Justice. These officials are going over various law enforcement problems with Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and department aides.

In the forthcoming investigations in Michigan, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, the government is expected to use the same technique it employed in the Louisiana inquiry.

This means that there is a strong possibility that a number of mail fraud indictments will be sought.

Reliable sources explained that a close perusal of the income tax returns by state officials in Louisiana gave federal investigators numerous "leads" which served as the basis for bringing action against officials for mail fraud.

It was conceded that there is little likelihood that the three-state inquiry will develop income tax irregularities.

Nevertheless, the tax returns filed by a number of state officials in these areas are being subjected to close scrutiny. It was a similar study in Louisiana that developed mail fraud evidence there.

SUITOR MURDERS MAN DISCOVERED WITH HIS FRIEND

NEWTON, N. J., April 1.—Charged with the killing of a former Sunday School teacher whom he had trapped in a mountain cabin near Newton, N. J., with his 20-year-old sweetheart, Leonard Dube, 28, a Bronx, N. Y., apartment house superintendent, awaited arraignment today in court.

The victim was Richard C. Schween, 34, a well-to-do plumber in Dubee, who had often helped Dube by giving him jobs, according to mutual friends.

Russell May Appeal

BERTRAND Russell, philosopher and mathematician, plays a game of chess with his wife, Lady Russell, in their Beverly Hills, Cal., home—a continent away from the row kicked up by his appointment as mathematics teacher at the College of the City of New York. New York Supreme Court suit that brought his ouster was brought by the mother of two children, who declared his writing and views on sex and marriage, would "have a demoralizing effect" on his students. Russell is considering the appeal.

DRIVE TO DISCREDIT F. D. R. LAUNCHED BY GERMANS, RUSSIANS

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE The diplomatic battle that Germany started by publishing last week's white book picturing the United States as fostering Europe's war is by no means over.

That point appeared virtually certain today when International News Service in Washington learned from an authoritative senate source that the American government has evidence of Russo-German cooperation in a propaganda campaign to discredit President Roosevelt at home and abroad.

This source said the German white book is only one of a series of attacks planned against the President.

Berlin dispatches on Saturday forecast even more sensational German charges against the President.

An indication that the entire affair may develop into an international verbal slugging match, with Germany and the United States trading punches toe to toe, was seen in a reliable prediction from Washington that federal agencies have collected evidence regarding the German charges.

Proper Time Awaited A responsible official said that this evidence may be made public "at the appropriate time."

London, too, seemed to be heading into more diplomatic fistfuffs as London dispatches (Continued on Page Two)

Youngsters Enjoying Sunday Ride Victims Of Seattle Crash

AVIATRIX, 29, DIES

Gas Tank Explodes Halting Rescue Attempts

SEATTLE, Wash., April 1.—A mass of scorched, twisted wreckage was probed by inspectors for the Civil Aeronautics Authority today to determine the cause of a Sunday plane crash which killed Miss Cora Sterling, 29-year-old aviatrix, and four joy-riding children.

The children were Janet, 8, and Charlene Taylor, 5, daughters of King County Commissioner Jack Taylor, and Allen Taylor, 14, and James Taylor, 9, nephews of the commissioner.

Miss Sterling, the first woman to hold a transport pilot's license in Washington, took off with the young quartet in a single motored four-passenger plane owned by John C. Stevenson, prominent Seattle attorney and former county commissioner.

After 15 minutes in the air, Miss Sterling lowered the ship to an altitude of about 500 feet over Boeing Field, the King County airport. It appeared at first she was leveling off for a landing.

Suddenly, however, the plane side slipped, then it crashed full speed into a packed sawdust pile across the highway from the landing field.

The impact was so terrific that the nose of the plane was buried five feet. The gasoline tank exploded and set fire to the wreckage, preventing rescue efforts.

Only after more than an hour were the cremated bodies of the five victims removed.

Stevenson collapsed as he stood with the helpless rescue squad at the scene.

Miss Sterling was described by acquaintances as a "woman ace," having flown planes throughout the Northwest for more than 11 years.

TWO KILLED, 125 ESCAPE FLAMES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Two unidentified women were burned to death, and at least five other persons were injured—one critically—when fire swept through an apartment house a few blocks from the White House today.

More than 125 residents of the three-story, 40-apartment building were roused by the blaze, which brought fire equipment from all sections of the capital in response to five alarms.

The flames were brought under control, and firemen began searching for bodies of other persons possibly trapped by the fire.

Michael Jones, 50, was reported dying in Emergency Hospital from a fractured skull sustained when he leaped from a third-floor window in attempting to escape from the flaming building. His wife, Mary, 38, who also jumped, was treated for back injuries.

Elizabeth Manley, 40, was burned about the face, arms and legs when she dashed back into her flaming apartment to rescue a five-week old puppy, Joseph James, 35, and his wife, Miriam, 34, suffered minor burns.

QUAKE SHOCK IN OCEAN RECORDED AT UNIVERSITY

Smoking Prohibited After Water From Dike Sweeps Into Stored Fuel

JAMES' TOWN IMPERILED

Six Deaths Reported From West Coast; Streams Go Down In Some Regions

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., April 1.—A leaking gasoline storage tank and a broken dike at nearby Kingston threw thousands of people into a panic today when its inflammable contents rapidly spread over the waters of the flood-filled Susquehanna River.

Cause of the leak was not immediately established but it was believed water swirling from the hole in the dike had seeped beneath the foundation causing the tank to sag and break.

Authorities in Wilkes-Barre, Kingston, and Edwardsville prohibited smoking as the gasoline blanketed the water and released fumes that could be smelled for more than a mile.

Shortly after 8 a. m., the flood-

BELGRADE, April 1.—Low-lying districts of Belgrade were evacuated today as swollen waters of the Danube River attained a record high—23 feet above normal—flooding railway stations and warehouses in the capital.

Residents evacuated scores of villages along the river's path. Premier Dragisha Cvetkovic made an aerial tour of the flooded areas in preparation for emergency relief measures.

ed river, which inundated several points in South Wilkes-Barre, Plymouth, the home of Gov. Arthur H. James; West Nanticoke and Hanover Township to a depth of several feet, receded two-hundredths of an inch.

Officials were quick to point out, however, that the slight decline was not indicative that the river had started to drop. They pointed out that in an earlier flood, the river dropped several inches from 29 feet and then rose to 33 feet.

Refugees Crowd Hotels

Hotels in Wilkes-Barre were crowded with people who fled their homes.

Many neighborhood stores were closed, throwing an added burden on food stores situated on higher ground.

The flood waters were reported menacing the city's gas supply and preparations were being made for emergency shipments if the stream goes higher.

By International News Service Scores of families fled their homes in the region of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., as the swollen Susquehanna, fed by melting snows and heavy rains, crept higher and higher over its banks today.

Elsewhere, the flood danger was receding as the rivers, both on the West Coast and in eastern states, (Continued on Page Two)

LONDON—Outlines of a new Anglo-French policy aimed at intensification of the blockade against Germany will be placed before the House of Commons tomorrow by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, authoritative British quarters indicated today.

WOMAN HUNTED AS SUSPECT IN CO-ED'S DEATH

State College Authorities Hint That Teeth Marks Provide Indication

The body was small. They argued also that Miss Taylor would not have been afraid to accept a "lift" from a woman motorist at 1:30 in the morning.

Earlier, the picture of a maniacal motorist deliberately running down the Taylor girl and later savagely mutilating her body was projected into the case.

Virtually at a standstill in their hunt for the murderer of the stockily built Wildwood, N. J. freshman, police made an all-day search of automobiles in the vicinity of State College in an attempt to find bloodstains, clothing, or anything else on the underpinnings that might lead to identification of the slayer.

Col. Lynn G. Adams, commissioner of the state motor police, declared he was "convinced the murderer ran down the girl with his automobile." No trace of the automobile has been found. Tire abrasions, Adams disclosed, were found under the right thigh of the Taylor girl.

The latest state police theory suffered, however, from the assertions of two young men that they saw Miss Taylor stop in front of a garage a half block from her dormitory, switch her bag and coats from arm to arm, and proceed across the street.

Would Have Heard Thud

They likewise insisted that an automobile moved down the street a few minutes later, but had it struck Miss Taylor it appeared doubtful that they would not have heard at least a thud of car meeting body, if not a scream.

The only other possibility appeared to be that Miss Taylor accepted a ride, was taken to a remote spot, and, resisting the advances of her companion, attempted to jump out of the car, only to be run down by her attacker.

Meanwhile, a citizens' committee, comprised of more than 50 prominent State College residents, gave Nagle P. Young, 33-year-old heating engineer, completely exonerated last night of any connection with the crime, a vote of confidence.

An open letter to Young, published in the Center Daily Times, State College's newspaper, declared that "the confirmation of your innocence and freedom from suspicion in the relation to crime in this community gives great satisfaction to those who have known you personally in any way."

pressed intensification on the anti-German blockade with special reference to iron ore shipments moving to Germany through territorial waters of neutral Norway.

The London News Chronicle shouted that Britain is "going to stop" this traffic and that it "no longer will be tolerated, even if stoppage involves some technical infringements of international law."

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is expected to reveal an outline of the Allied plans before the House of Commons tomorrow, and it is believed they will include rationing of goods imported by Germany's neutral neighbors.

Actual warfare was confined chiefly to the air. Berlin announced that seven French planes were shot down in three aerial combats over the Western Front, while no German planes were lost. Berlin also stated that the Reich air force carried out reconnaissance flights from eastern France to the Shetland Islands without suffering losses. But London believed that two German planes had been damaged too seriously to return to their home bases.

Arms Drive Begins

Soviet Russia launched a huge arms expansion program with announcement of a defense budget for 1940 of about $11,500,000,000. At the same time a new Soviet Republic was created, covering ceded Finnish territory and the Russian Karelian region.

In reply to Secretary of State Cordell Hull's announcement that the United States would not recognize the new Japanese-sponsored Wang Ching-Wel regime in China, a Japanese government spokesman threatened that Nippon might refuse to "cooperate" with the United States.

The Japanese news agency accused America of obstructionist tactics and "distorting the objectives of the boly war" in China.

INFANT ONLY SURVIVOR OF OHIO HOME FLAMES

PORTSMOUTH, April 1—Funeral services were to be held today for six members of the Leedy family who died in a fire which destroyed their home.

Meanwhile, physicians strove to save the life of two-months-old Mary Lou Leedy, only survivor of the blaze, who was in critical condition.

The father, Raymond Leedy, 36, and three other children, Betty, 6; Charles, 4, and Raymond Jr., 2, died in the flames. The mother, Mrs. Cressy Leedy, 28, and another little girl, Dolores, 7, succumbed to burns.

Authorities said the blaze started when the father tried to kindle a fire with gasoline.

A recent litter of pure-bred pigs produced 22 live animals for their owner.

reached their crests last night and began falling.

Six deaths on the West Coast were attributed to the storm. Four persons died in up-state New York. Two small boys were drowned in Michigan. One death was reported in Wilkes-Barre. Four persons were trapped and drowned in western Pennsylvania.

Red Cross officials were supervising the evacuation of between 1,500 and 2,000 persons in low-lying sections of the Wyoming Valley at Wilkes-Barre where the Susquehanna reached 27.42 feet above the low water mark last night.

Twelve huge self-bailing boats were dispatched from New York to Wilkes-Barre by the coast guard. A coast guard plane took off from New York yesterday to survey the flood area but was unable to land because the Wilkes-Barre field was water-logged and returned.

At Pittsburgh, the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers reached a crest of 28.53 feet last night, more than three feet over the 25 foot flood stage, and then began receding. Only nominal damage by slight flooding of low-lying sections was caused.

Other Streams Fall

Other streams in western Pennsylvania similarly rose to flood levels and then began slowly receding.

Thousands of families in Wilkes-Barre and the nearby communities of Plymouth, home of Gov. Arthur H. James, and Nanticoke, Edwardsville and Breslau were thrown into panic by the rising Susquehanna. The river rose more than 18 feet in 24 hours yesterday. The scenes were reminiscent of the 1936 flood when the Susquehanna reached a stage of 33 feet, 20,000 persons were marooned and $10,000,000 in property damage was caused.

Wilkes-Barre residents were warned to be ready to leave on short notice. Several hundred families were evacuated in boats and housed in public buildings last night. Many moved their furniture to upper floors. Business men worked all day removing their stocks to safe quarters.

New damage was threatened in Williamsport, Pa., by the Susquehanna on the eve of a special election on a $175,000 bond issue for flood control.

Low-lying houses were flooded at Scranton, Pa.

At Johnstown, the "flood city," the Conemaugh and Stony Creek rivers, reached a crest of 16 feet four inches and then receded. Business district basements were flooded.

Southern New York was temporarily threatened with grave danger but the streams began receding after reaching near flood levels. The southern section of Syracuse was flooded by Onondaga Creek. Several families were rescued in row boats. Traffic was closed in 20 city blocks. Three bridges at Binghamton were closed by the rising waters of the Susquehanna and Chenango Rivers.

EAST LANSING, Mich., April 1—Dragging of the flooded Red Cedar River for the bodies of two Lansing boys who drowned Saturday was continued today.

Eight Ingham County deputies and state police were thrown into the rushing waters when their rowboats capsized. One of the deputies, Jerry Allen, 41, is in an oxygen tent in St. Lawrence Hospital fighting threatened pneumonia.

The boys—Thomas Deveraux, 10, and James Prescott, 9,—lost their lives while playing near the swollen stream on their way home from a hike.

IT'S a toast to Mirlan Hopkins as can be evidenced by the above scenes or by any of the many who thronged to the Grand Theatre Sunday to see her latest picture, "Virginia City" in which she plays with handsome Errol Flynn and Randolph Scott. Filmed on actual location it is a story of the perils that confronted the men that were in charge of the shipment of gold that was so vital to the South during the late stages of the Civil War.

Chillicothe was awarded the annual district convention to be held in July. The conference also endorsed the Rev. I. F. Lee of Hillsboro as department chaplain.

Ben M. Segal, Chillicothe district commander, presented to Morris Ball, chairman of the James Dickey Post, a trophy marking the post's junior baseball club winning the district championship in 1939.

The district went over the top in its membership drive, signing 1,894 members to exceed the quota by 54.

Hospitalization Day

Hospitalization day will be celebrated at the Veterans Facility Hospital in Chillicothe, May 12, with an all-day program. The principal speaker will be R. B. Gardner, department commander. Twenty-one posts from eight counties were represented at the conference.

PLEA IS VOICED AGAINST SLASH IN WPA ACCOUNT

WASHINGTON, April 1—An appeal for an emergency appropriation to prevent further reduction of WPA rolls during May and June was made today by Rep. Cochran (D) Mo.

He made his appeal as Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, put into effect a 200,000 reduction in WPA for the month of April. Cochran said that $38,000,000 was needed to prevent further cuts May 1.

FLEET GOES TO SEA

SAN PEDRO, Cal.—Like a giant unshackling for the fray, the heavy-gunned United States fleet, defender of all the Americas, quietly shook loose from its moorings today for the start of its 1940 war games.

Cincinnati said there was no immediate flood danger.

Unless there are additional heavy rains, the river was expected to reach a crest Thursday or Friday somewhat under the flood stage, which averages 50 feet. The river is now about six or eight feet above normal.

MARTINS FERRY, O., April 1—Fed by swollen mountain streams in Pennsylvania, the Ohio River at Martins Ferry reached a 38-foot flood stage at 7 a. m. today. Observers predicted that the stream would reach a 35-foot crest at noon.

Today's Menu

Flank Steak Fillets
Baked Potatoes
Buttered Cabbage
Home-Made Pickles
Cherry Cottage Pudding
Coffee or Tea

Flank Steak Fillets—Ingredients: one flank steak, two cups bread crumbs, one small onion, grated; one-half cup diced celery, two tablespoons butter, salt and pepper. Have a flank steak scored at the market. Make a dressing of the other ingredients and spread over steak. Roll like a jelly roll. Place skewers through the roll at about one inch intervals. Slice between the rolls. Brown these slices on both sides in hot lard, add one-fourth cup hot water, cover and cook very slowly until the fillets are tender, about one hour.

Cherry Cottage Pudding—Ingredients: one No. 2 can pitted red cherries, one-fourth cup shortening, two-thirds cup sugar, one egg, one-fourth teaspoon almond extract, one and three-fourths cups flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half cup irradiated evaporated milk and one-half cup water, or one cup bottled milk, one tablespoon vinegar. Drain cherries thoroughly and save juice for sauce. Cream shortening, add sugar and continue creaming until sugar granules are dissolved. Add egg and beat well, then stir in flouring. Sift flour, then measure. Beat with baking powder, salt and soda. Combine milk and water, and stir in vinegar. Add alternately with dry ingredients to first mixture, beginning and ending with dry ingredients. Add cherries with last few stirrings. Pour into a greased cake pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until cake springs back when pressed lightly with the finger, about 45 minutes. Cut in squares and serve with hot cherry sauce. Makes one nine-inch square.

Cherry Sauce—Ingredients: one tablespoon cornstarch, one-fourth cup sugar, cherry juice plus water to make one cup liquid. Mix cornstarch and sugar. Add liquid, then boil until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Serve hot.

Buttered Broiled Rice—Ingredients: one cup uncooked rice, two quarts boiling water, three teaspoons salt. Wash rice through several waters until water is clear; drain. Place in flat pan under broiler. Broil until golden brown, shaking pan occasionally to turn rice. Remove from broiler, add gradually to rapidly boiling salted water, never allowing water to stop boiling during the addition. Boil rapidly, uncovered, until rice is tender, about 15 to 20 minutes. Drain. Makes three cups. Put leftover in pudding.

Coffee Cream Puffs—Ingredients: one-half cup butter, three-fourths cup double-strength, freshly-made coffee, one-fourth cup boiling water, one cup sifted flour, four eggs. Melt butter in boiling coffee and water. Add flour and cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture leaves the side of the pan. Remove from heat and drop in eggs, one at a time, beating until perfectly blended after each addition. Drop by spoonfuls on baking sheet and bake in hot oven (450 F.) 15 minutes. Reduce heat to moderate and make 30 minutes longer. Cool, split and fill as desired. Makes 12 large cream puffs.

Salmon Piquante Mashed Potatoes
Tossed Green Salad

Molasses Doughnuts Coffee
FOR THE tossed green salad I suggest you use two cups crisp shredded cabbage, one cup diced celery, one-half diced green pepper, and maybe a few sprigs of the tender small leaves of fresh spinach or any other greens you have on hand. Tiny radish leaves have a piquant taste, if you don't mind the fuzziness, which is hardly noticeable in the smallest leaves and stalks.

Salmon Piquante—Ingredients: one pound can red salmon, one cup irradiated evaporated milk, or rich bottled milk, three tablespoons lemon juice, chopped chives or few gratings onion. Turn can of salmon while into a buttered baking dish. Pour lemon juice over salmon. Pour milk over salmon and sprinkle with chives or a little grated onion. Bake in a hot oven (400 F.) about 25 minutes, or until thoroughly heated. Serves four.

Molasses Doughnuts—Ingredients: two eggs, one cup sugar, one-half cup light-colored molasses, one cup sour milk or buttermilk, four cups flour, one teaspoon soda, one fourth teaspoon cloves, one-fourth teaspoon ginger, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one tablespoon shortening (melted). Beat eggs, add sugar gradually and beat well. Then add molasses and milk and the dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Beat in the melted shortening. Chill dough, then turn out onto well-floured board and roll to one-fourth inch thickness; cut with a doughnut cutter, and fry in deep fat at 365 F. until the doughnuts are well browned. Drain on soft paper. After each using, cool the fat slightly, then add a slice of two of raw potato and reheat the fat until the potato is well browned. For variety, roll plain doughnuts or molasses doughnuts in a mixture of three-fourths cup superfine powdered sugar and two tablespoons of cinnamon. (Makes 36.)

Toast with Cheese—Slice bread quite thin, partly brown it, then spread with butter and put a good-sized slice of cheese in the middle, return to broiler or oven for cheese to melt and toast to brown. Serve very hot.

54 PUPILS TAKE EXAMINATIONS OF SCHOLARSHIP

Papers Sent To Columbus For Final Checking By State Office

TEAM TESTS ARRANGED

County Students To Meet Saturday To Vie For Positions

Fifty-four students, including ten from Circleville High School, took the General Scholarship Examination at Circleville High School Saturday. The examination, comprehensive in its coverage of mathematics, science, American history, world history, literature and current events, was open to all the seniors of the county schools.

With the tests having been sent to the Department of Examinations in Columbus where they will be graded by machines, the county students are now looking forward to the Selection Examinations that will be conducted at the high school at 9 a. m. Saturday, April 6.

Each of the 12 high schools in the county is eligible to send two students to compete in each of the 20 examinations which will cover only one subject. A team of 40 students, the highest two in each subject, will then be selected to represent the county at the district scholarship examination at Columbus on May 4.

May Take Two Tests
Students may take two examinations at the tests to be given at Circleville, but may be entered in only one subject at the May 4 examinations at Ohio State in May.

The subjects which will be in the schedule of tests for next Saturday are biology, chemistry, general science, physics, algebra, plain geometry, American history, world history, ninth year English, tenth year English, eleventh year English, twelfth year English, first year Latin, second year Latin, first year French, second year French, bookkeeping one typing one, shorthand one and shorthand two.

Following the grading of the examinations at the university, the county superintendents will select a team of 32 for the regular subjects and eight for the commercial subjects to make a team of 40 to compete in the district tests.

The schedule of rooms and teachers for the tests Saturday is as follows: 9 a. m. to 10 a. m.: Latin two, Mr. Bennett, room 202; typing one, Mr. Cress, room 203; English one, two, three and four, Mr. Higley, Mr. Connell, Mr. Strous, and Mrs. Smith, room 204; Latin one, Miss DeMuth and Miss Marshall, room 205; chemistry, Mr. Broyles, room 209; physics, Mr. Canup, room 209; general science, Mr. Costlow, room 210; biology, Mr. Johnson, room 210; Algebra, Mr. Hansen, room 211; plain geometry, Mr. Florence, room 211; bookkeeping one, Miss Jackson, room 212; world history, Mr. Boyer, room 213; American history, Mr. Francis, room 214.

The same schedule will be followed during the 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. period for those students who are taking two examinations. The student may choose which he prefers to take first. During the second period shorthand one will be given in room 203 under Mr. Cress and short hand two will be given in room 212 under Miss Ryan.

A battery of four tests, English, American history, science and mathematics, will make up the Eighth Year Test which will be held at six centers in the county at 9 a. m. Friday, April 19. County awards will be given to those who rank in upper 25 percent and state awards will be received by those who are in the top one percent in the state.

Total of County Blind In Ohio's Middle Group

Pickaway County falls into the middle bracket of Ohio counties that have dependent blind on the rolls of those registered for public assistance, Miss Virginia Smith, county supervisor of the department of public assistance, reported Monday.

With 40 persons listed as receiving aid because of blindness, the county falls far short of those in the state whose blind total is several hundred. The county is also far ahead of those who have less than 10 on their rolls.

The wide divergence of figures can be seen when statistics released recently by the state's department of public assistance show that Cuyahoga, Franklin and Hamilton counties have 370, 293 and 263 respectively. Fulton, Holmes and Medina counties have three, six and six respectively.

Since January 1, three new applicants were received, but the number of blind in the county has remained fairly constant since the beginning of 1939.

"We usually get as many new cases on our rolls as we lose," Miss Smith said. "Because we investigate the possible cases and don't wait until they are forced to apply out of sheer desperation as a last resort."

"Although the state set a maximum of $400 per year that the blind may receive in grants, there is no provision for a minimum. We have tried to divide the small funds that we have as equitably as possible according to the actual need of the blind," she continued. "Our average monthly grant to the blind is $16, but the range in grants varies from $5 per month to $30."

The number on blind aid in Pickaway County falls almost in the middle of numbers aided by the surrounding counties. Registered blind in the nearby counties are as follows: Ross, 63; Fayette, 62; Pickaway, 40; Fairfield, 32 and Hocking, 24.

"The majority of the causes of blindness in the county are unknown," Miss Smith said. "Other cases are due to cataracts, diseases and accidents. Only two persons that are receiving aid from the county were blind at birth."

SOVIET DEFENSE BUDGET SCORES NEW HIGH MARK

MOSCOW, April 1—Announcing a record-breaking 1940 defense budget of 57,000,000,000 rubles (about $11,500,000,000), Russia launched a huge expansion program today.

The budget was announced in the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) which created a new Soviet Republic—the 12th in the USSR—covering ceded Finnish territory and the Russian Karelian region.

The new defense estimates exceeded the 1939 appropriations by more than 40 percent, indicating Russia is making preparations to meet possible involvement in the European war. The entire general 1940 budget called for expenditures of 179,700,000,000 rubles.

Finance Commissar Zveriev told cheering deputies that Russia finances are sound and estimated revenue for the new fiscal year at 182,200,000,000 rubles, exceeding estimated expenditures by more than 2,000,000,000. The income tax rate will be increased for persons earning more than 600 rubles a month.

The Supreme Soviet unanimously adopted the law incorporating the ceded Finnish areas into the USSR and joining them to Soviet Karelian districts in the new "Karelian-Finnish Federal Soviet Socialist Republic" with an estimated population of approximately 1,500,000.

The new republic theoretically will have equality with the 11 others in the USSR. It will be entitled to its own autonomous parliament and cabinet and to proportionate representation in the Supreme Soviet. Finnish will be the official language of the new republic.

TESTS SCHEDULED

Every pupils tests are scheduled for the Circleville High School Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

WRITE-IN LOOMS FOR STATE JOB

Republican Committee Said To Be Against Selection Of Cincinnati Man

COLUMBUS, April 1—The Republican State Central committee today considered the feasibility of sanctioning a write-in campaign in an attempt to defeat Edward J. Hummel of Cincinnati, who is alone as a candidate for the Republican nomination for secretary of state following the death of Earl Griffith.

Griffith, 52-year-old Secretary of State and Mt. Gilead publisher who died Saturday after suffering a heart attack in his office a week ago, was a candidate for reelection.

As the filing deadline for candidates has passed, a write-in candidate remains the only possible chance of defeating Hummel, constantly at odds with the state organization, for the Republican nomination.

Both Governor Bricker and State Chairman Ed D. Schorr were reported as favoring such a candidate, but the organization was hampered by lack of a suitable possibility.

Meanwhile, Governor Bricker was to lead a delegation of state officials and other high Republicans to the funeral services for Griffith at Mt. Gilead, scheduled for this afternoon at 2:30.

Tomorrow, Bricker will ask the opening session of the state-wide party rally in Columbus to propose a candidate for appointment to the post until the November election, when a short-term secretary of state will be elected to serve until January, when the official elected for 1941-1942 will take office.

The choice of an appointee was believed to lie among Thomas E. Bateman, Columbus, clerk of the Ohio Senate; George Neffner, veteran statistician in the secretary of state's office; John G. Belknap, assistant secretary of state; and Arthur Hamilton, Lebanon, former speaker of the Ohio House.

MOORE, TWELVETREES

Victor Moore, supported by Helen Twelvrees and John Beal, will be heard Wednesday, April 3, 9 p. m., CBS, when the Star Theatre presents "Alias the Deacon," a comedy by John B. Hymer and LeRoy Clemens. As hero of the play, Moore portrays a card sharp whose clerical appearance gives him the nickname of "Deacon." When he drops off the brake rods of a box car and lands in a small midwestern town, the Deacon knicks the bridgeplaying ladies for plenty of small change, teaches the wisecracks something about poker, and wins back the $2500 note the Widow Clark has given the village Shylock. The Deacon plays cupid for Miss Twelvrees and Mr. Beal and after making life pleasant in general for a number of people, merrily hops a freight while the Sheriff's back is conveniently turned. On the Hollywood end of the program, Ken Murray, Kenny Baker, Frances Langford and Irene Ryan will be heard.

BUILDING OF NOAH'S ARK
Starting Wednesday, April 3,

over NBC at 2 p. m. "Light of the World," the new daytime radio program based upon the Bible, will begin the episode of Noah building the ark.

Noah will be played by Ed Jerome, and the other roles will be enacted as follows: Ham, Chester Stratton; Shem, Bartlett Robinson; Jepheth, Ted Reid; Mother Noah (Noah's wife), Charmee Allen; Renah, Gertrude Werner.

RADIO NOTES

Kay Kyser continues merrily on his record-smashing tour and the latest attendance record to succumb to his music is that at Atlantic City's Steel Pier where the Professor of "College of Musical Knowledge" attracted 25,000 people on Easter Sunday. Kay's April dates include Lions Club, Providence (5); Charity Temple, Troy (6) and Auditorium, Worcester (7).

Exra Stone's biography is in Felix B. Streyckman's new book, "Today's Young Men." Stone, star of "The Aldrich Family," has his entire career traced in the story.

"What's My Name?" gets another 13-week ride, its third, starting May 3, on NBC-Red Fridays.

Sponsor of "Hobby Lobby," which fades next month, may remain on the air with a daytime show through spring and summer.

Hold your hats, pals, another quiz show is on the way. This one's "So You Think You Know Sports," a 30-minute stanza with Clem McCarthy the quizmaster. A sister series, "So You Think You Know Music" is now on CBS and will be willed the Orson Welles 8 o'clock Sunday spot when the Bogey Man retires from the scene.

Horace Heidt's "Pot o' Gold" troupe has joined the cheering section for "Buck Benny Rides Again" music to make "Say it," and "My! My!" on wax.

The "Johnny Presents" show ran a minute overtime last week at rehearsal so Rush Hughes, the "Hugereel" man and Bandleader Johnny Green flipped a coin to see who would do the cutting. Hughes won and Green sliced a minute from his music.

Nan Rae and Maude Davis, comedy team, heard on the air for the first time on the Kate Smith Hour, are due for more radio breaks and possibly several additional periods with Kate.

"You see that gas pump? Well, every gallon of gas coming out of that pump is good; and what's more, you know it's good. That's largely because the company whose gas I sell advertises. That company has developed a reputation for selling a product of high quality. It has improved its product from time to time, and has told you about the improvements through advertising... Today, you know that you can go into any gas station where that company's sign appears and get the standard products—of the same high quality that it is in every other station selling that gasoline. Now, that's confidence, and you have it because the company's name and reputation for selling a sound product is known to you, and is constantly kept before you, by advertising... Nowadays, your gas costs you about a penny a mile, probably less than that. Do you think you could get good gasoline so cheap if there wasn't any advertising done by motor car and gasoline companies, by chambers of commerce, resorts, and other advertisers to make you want to go places and see things? I don't think so, Mister—that wouldn't make sense to me."

BAD YEAR FOR BETTING

THERE is a curious air of unreality about all these straw votes and guesses and arguments about the presidential campaign. An onlooker gets an impression somewhat as if he were standing between two trains moving in opposite directions, while trying to see around the next block and through a brick wall.

The "dope" is mostly unconvincing. The opinion-sampling so far may prove worthless in actual terms of nomination and election. Too many of the factors are not yet known—not only the President's plans, but those of some other important personages, and the war in Europe, the Asiatic problem, the probable trend of business through the summer, and so on.

It seems likely to be a year of stirring drama. But not a very good year for betting money on anything.

FRIENDS OF THE LAND

A NEW organization, calling itself tentatively "Friends of the Land," is a non-profit, non-partisan association working for conservation. Among its sponsors are such familiar leaders as Stuart Chase, J. N. Darling, Dr. Einstein and Charles E. Beard, renewing a movement started by Theodore Roosevelt and Gifford Pinchot a generation ago.

"We have talked a great deal about conservation," explains the chairman of the group. "We have barely begun to do something about it in a large, sensible and connected way. The need to do more is urgent."

The government has given conservation a prominent place in its program, but has been able to do little more than make a start in the right direction. The Friends of the Land believe that there is a job here for private citizens along with government. The people themselves, all over the country, need to understand the "essential unity of soil, water, forest, game and human problems which are so coordinated as to advance as one."

The converse is perhaps true also, and they retreat as one. "Soil displacement is followed by human displacement," in city as well as country. It may be too late to restore some of the destroyed regions, as it is too late to restore the vanished wild life. But other resources are threatened which, by prompt action, can be saved and improved. "Friends of the Land" are making it their business to interest all of us in this task.

The nations now are fighting over oil, but there isn't enough of it to pour on the troubled waters.

Canada will pay for all this cold weather. If or when summer comes, America will be glad just to stay at home and enjoy the warmth.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

IN A CURIOUS fashion Germany's reaction to Undersecretary Sumner Welles' European tour, at the present stage of the current Old World war, has resembled its reaction to Henry Ford's peace tour, rather early in 1914-18 World conflict.

That is to say: At the time the Ford-ites sailed from Hoboken, the Kaiser already had had considerably the best of the land fighting on his side of the Atlantic and was disposed to come to terms—on his own conditions, of course. I don't imagine that he had any notion of making peace permanently, but it probably seemed to him like a good opportunity, if available, to stop for awhile and consolidate his position.

And, being a humorless cuss, he didn't recognize what a joke the Ford crew was, and had 'em received in all seriousness. Today, Herr Hitler surely did have the best of the grabbing before actual hostilities broke out, and perhaps now he's willing to wait a bit until he's digested his previous grabs before going ahead with the rest of his program. He's in much the same fix (at the same advantage and in the same danger) as the Kaiser 24 years ago.

Anyhow, that's the conclusion to be drawn from utterly unreliable reports of chats between Welles and Hitler, Minister von Ribbentrop, Marshal Goering, Herr Goebbels, Hans Dieckhoff and other Berlin notabilities.

BACK IN 1916
But to get back to Henry Ford. The Washington state department wasn't fooled in the least by that expedition. It refused to grant passports to expeditionaries through any belligerent territory. Germany, however, had a vague hunch that the so-called "peace" might have some real temporary peace in their systems. There were two ways for them to get home, by way of Denmark to Holland—via the North Sea, infested by U-boats, or by land, right through comparatively safe, passportless Germany.

"By all means," said the Germans, "travel our way"—and we did, passportless. They were just as nice as they could be, and talked peace to us clear from Warnemunde to Bentseim, on the Dutch frontier. But after they'd looked at us they knew how crazy we were. They gave us up as a bad job. We had with us a small delegation of Danish, Swedish and Norwegian "peace"ers who wanted to go home from Holland the way they'd come. The Germans wouldn't pass them back. When the rest of us sailed for the United States from Rotterdam, those poor Scandinavians were left to stay forever in Holland or risk the North Sea with its mines and things.

WIDE OPEN COMMUNICATIONS
It goes without saying that Undersecretary Welles' communications will have been wide open, not to mention his reports on his return. How candid these folks will have been isn't altogether the question, either. They may have meant what they said. The undersecretary's conclusions will have had a lot to do with it. The negotiation has been awfully secret up to date. We'd like to know what the undersecretary THINKS. It isn't too soon to ask for "open diplomacy" openly arrived at," anyway. The Ford Peace Tour isn't altogether to be disregarded. It was a joke. But!!! I want to know. I think he was a fish. And yet?

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN

BOOSTED WPA WINS FDR

WASHINGTON—The inner circle advocates of a $1,500,000,000 WPA budget have won their fight in the White House.

They have convinced Roosevelt that his original $1,000,000,000 estimate was too low, and he has authorized WPA Administrator Harrington to tell the House Appropriation Committee that the President now favors an additional half billion—which would bring the WPA budget up to this year's level.

Harrington appears before the committee today (Monday). In addition to the confidential Roosevelt message, he will give the committee an economic report showing a marked decline in business since January 1 and a heavy increase in unemployment. According to Harrington's figures, the demand for relief is greater now than at any time since the winter of 1938.

Two influences won over Roosevelt. One was Mayor LaGuardia of New York, who painted a very doleful economic picture and told him the cities could not increase their relief loads, that the Federal Government must handle the problem. The other was a confidential Treasury report on the recent income tax payments.

The figures showed around $100,000,000 more than Treasury estimates, for a total of $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 over 1939 receipts.

Strongly economy minded, Secretary Morgenthau was keeping this information secret, for fear that if it leaked out the spenders would gobble up the excess. But the inner circle got wind of the cache and used it as a trump card to win over Roosevelt on the WPA issue.

UNINFORMED

You know just as much as Mrs. Roosevelt does about the President's plans regarding a third term. She has no idea what he will do, has not discussed the matter with him and does not intend to.

"That's a decision," she says, "that a man must make for himself."

NOTE—In a chat with an old friend during his illness last week, Roosevelt gave a possible clue to his trend of thought in this reflective observation: "Teddy tried for a third term but couldn't make it."

SILENT JACK

During the 1939 battle over the original Hatch bill, barring federal employees from political activity, Vice President Garner issued his first statement on a legislative issue. Said he to newsmen, "You can quote me as saying that this bill will pass."

But during the bitter two-weeks battle over the latest Hatch bill, extending the politics ban to state machines, Garner said not one word, spent little time in the chair during the debate, while a number of his closest cronies were in the van in the effort to defeat the measure.

NOTE—Since the inclusion of the Senate amendment limiting political contributions to $5,000, the Hatch bill is now referred to in congressional cloakrooms as the "You-Can-Sin-Up-To-Five-Grand" bill.

Fibrositis Arrives With Spring Flowers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE, IN America, have been pampered pets of Nature for a number of years. We have had about 15 years of unusually mild and temperate winters all over the country. But this spring, with a severe winter behind us, we may begin to see examples of the English disease, fibrositis, or painful nodules.

It has not been reported very often in American literature, and I think there is no doubt that it has some relation to cold climates and severe weather. It is by no means unknown in the northern states and in Canada.

The painful nodules occur anywhere under the skin; they may be in the muscles. Favorite places are along the neck, in the edge of the big triangular muscle that goes from the back of the head to the point of the shoulder; in the lumbar muscles of the back; in front in the breast and abdominal muscles. The nodules are painful and cause muscle spasm. They are often found in the course of massage.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Trapezius Myositis

That triangular muscle which forms a sheet along the back of the neck from the promontory of the hind part of the skull to the corner of the shoulder, the trapezius muscle, is the seat of an affection that is called trapezius myositis. (Myositis means muscle inflammation.)

It is a hangover in spring from a long siege of catarrh or infection of the nose and throat. There is pain noticed on turning the head or extending the neck. With fatigue of the muscles of the neck, there is apt to be headache in the back of the head. Tenderness can be elicited at the point of insertion of the muscle at the shoulder and back of the head.

Treatment consists, first, of free drainage of the nasal sinuses.

Another special form of fibrositis is panniculitis, which consists of painful spots in the fat of the abdomen, upper arm, upper leg, knees and calves. The typical sufferer is a middle-aged woman of puffy appearance. The skin is thickened and bound down so that it cannot be picked up as usual. Besides heat and massage, small amounts of thyroid extract are often beneficial.

Heat as Treatment

In treatment of any form of fibrositis, heat takes an important place. It is especially valuable because it can be given at home, by the household doctor. It may be moist or dry heat—mustard poultice, hot moist compresses, electric pad, hot bricks, hot iron, applied over a folded towel or flannel.

The best and most effective treatment is by massage. The fibrous nodules can be broken up and massaged away by a special type of heavy stroking and kneading massage, which is applied directly to the nodules. It produces subsequent relief, although it may be painful at the time. The patient should know the nature of the condition and be aware that the treatment will at first cause more pain, but that subsequent treatments will be less painful and eventually result in the disappearance of the nodules.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mrs. J. E. M.: "I have a five-year-old boy who has been troubled with asthma for the past three years. Do you think he can be cured?"

Answer—Asthma in children is almost always of a simple sort, uncomplicated by infection and due to sensitiveness to food or dust or animal dandruff. Perhaps a pet, such as a cat or a dog or a parrot, causes it; or rabbits. Perhaps some food or combination of foods is the cause. The proper course to pursue is to have an examination made by a man who practices allergy and who will be able to study his sensitiveness to various foods, dusts, etc. Children usually grow out of childhood asthma at about the age of nine or 10 years, but this time can be shortened by proper treatment. Asthma in older people is usually complicated by infection and much harder to eradicate.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendenning has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendenning, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Bedding and Gearing," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Culp, 469 East Main Street, took the "First Baby of the Month" prizes for April, offered by Circleville merchants.

Remodeling work at the Circleville Savings and Banking Co., which included rearrangement and refinishing of the interior, was in progress with Ray Rader in charge.

Circleville High School, and the high schools of Jackson, Pickaway, Walnut and Washington Townships, were accredited by the State Department of Education and the Federal Bureau listed them in a new publication showing all the schools in the United States of secondary grade whose standards were so high that college entrance could be made without special examinations.

10 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Florence Huber, a former Circleville resident, achieved wide recognition as an author of prose and poetry. She was listed in the new "Who's Who Among North American Authors" and was a contributor to the Poet's library, London, England.

A Mr. Hill, 31, Circleville, escaped serious injury when the automobile in which he was riding in Columbus collided with another at Fulton Street and Ohio Avenue and turned over.

He was treated for lacerations at St. Francis Hospital and released.

Mrs. Alice Brundige of Kingston was appointed census enumerator for that village by Arthur B. Harwood of Portsmouth, supervisor of the census of the twenty-sixth district.

25 YEARS AGO

The collier pup, Illahee Bobs, owned by Dr. Howard Jones, Park Place, took first premium at the annual show of the Columbus Kennel club at the Hartman coliseum, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Nothstine sold their farm of 80 acres in Madison Township to Mrs. Fannie Noecker of the same township for $12,000. The Nothstines were to move to Ashville early in June.

The temperature dropped to 15 degrees above zero, the coldest weather for March 29 since 1887, according to the records of the weather bureau.

Contrary to popular opinion, small bits of glass may be eaten and apparently will not injure the human body.

Don't carry a gun anywhere in the Orient, travelers are told. In Hongkong the penalty is flogging.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

BELZER refused to describe any further what it was he had discovered in the lower story of the old warehouse. "I'm not even sure I'll mention it in the paper tomorrow morning," he said. "This is something the police have got to look into first." He started the boat at last.

"Then you reporters do work with the police sometimes?" "Sometimes? What do you mean? I'm the best little detective they've got."

"Where do we go now?" Belzer headed the motorboat downstream. "To the inquest," he said. "And remember, if the reporters question you, you don't remember."

I'd forgotten the inquest. I wondered what the coroner would have thought if I had failed to show up. Lucky I had Belzer to keep me on the right side of the law, I decided.

"You don't have to testify at the inquest," he told me. "You can stand on your constitutional rights. Have you talked to your lawyer about it?"

"My lawyer? Harvey McGuire—I was going to telephone him, and forgot!"

The reporter looked away and drew a long, deep breath. "When it comes to crime you're a babe in the woods."

"Is that why you think I am innocent, when the coroner is so sure I am mixed up in this?"

"You don't fit into my theory of the crime," Belzer told me.

"What is your theory?"

The reporter swung the boat toward the west side of the channel as we passed the Rio Vista club, so we would not be recognized by any of his rivals who might be on the job there. "In the first place," he said, "I believe a professional criminal had something to do with laying the plot, and you're no professional."

"Then you agree with Captain McDonald that it was planned in advance?"

"Yes, but I don't think it was planned to be a killing. My guess is that the guy who attacked Markham knew Markham would be alone in the garden about that time of night. So if we want to find out who that man is, we might first try to find out why Markham was out there. Who suggested going into the garden? Did you?"

"Why, why?" I stammered, caught by surprise. "I don't know. I think we just went out to get some fresh air."

"Did he suggest it? Think?"

"I—I'm not certain. Yes, come to think of it, he was going out, and I suggested that I go along with him. He didn't seem cordial. He made it plain that he wanted to be alone."

"And you went anyway? That's a point against you. But I'm not suspicious of you. I'd say he was going to meet someone out there and didn't want you to know it."

"He didn't say anything about a meeting," I protested.

"Naturally he wouldn't, if he didn't want you to know about it. How did he finally get you to go back into the clubhouse and leave him there?"

"Vague, I'm afraid."

"Do you think he started the quarrel purposely—to get you to leave him?"

"I—I'm sure I can't answer that."

"Well, I'm pretty sure I can," Belzer said, swinging the boat in toward one of the city wharves. "I don't know anything against Markham. I understand he was a pretty swell fellow. But he had made a lot of money, so he must have been clever. He got you to go back into the clubhouse without actually telling you to go. He was going to make a deal with someone, with diamonds."

"My God, Belzer! Why didn't the motorist reverse and ease the boat to its mooring. He cut the switch and the motor stopped."

"Captain McDonald is working on that line," he said. "Come on. Let's call a cab." He removed the small gadget from the magnet again. We climbed the stone steps to the street level.

In the taxicab Belzer continued to explain his version of Markham's death. "After you went into the clubhouse Markham stood in the rose arbor, looking up at the sky. It was almost time for his appointment. The sound of the piano and the singing as you opened the door may have covered the quiet footsteps that sneaked up behind him. Remember, also, that the lights strung across the garden overhead had been turned off a short time before—which also indicates a carefully thought out plan. The attacker intended to be a few minutes early, and to take Markham by surprise—because he had no intention of paying for the diamonds."

Then it was a mistake to pick out a moonlight night for the crime," I suggested. "I should think he would have planned—"

"Not at all. Maybe the moonlight was bad for him, but he had to have the high tide. That's why he picked Tuesday night. He was going to kidnap Markham and take him by rowboat into that old warehouse, where the water is too shallow for a boat except at the highest tide. He'd leave no trail, and the police, even if they decided he got away by boat, wouldn't be likely to look into the warehouse. It's too close, and by the time they looked at it the next day the piles would be standing in mud, and they wouldn't think of it as a hiding place for a boat."

"Then the diamond sale was just a bait for something bigger?"

"Maybe. Let me go on. If I got my dope straight, anyone sneaking into the rose arbor from the south would pass the stool before he came to Markham. I think the stool was used as a weapon, striking the jeweler to the ground. Then it was thrown into the river."

"Markham fell where the croquet mallet lay. That's why there was blood on it. The police tested it to see if there was any hair sticking in the blood, as there ought to have been if he was hit over the head with the mallet. There wasn't."

"I'm learning things," I admitted.

"The guy who hit Markham probably had ropes in his boat, but the wire was handier. He tore it down to wrap around him, but Markham woke up too quick. Maybe he grabbed the mallet. The kidnaper had to knife him before he yelled for help."

"Why did he drag him along the walk instead of toward the river?"

"That's easy. He would have left a trail any other way. The gravel walk leads to the north wing of the building, where there's a sharp step, covered by the high tide Tuesday night. A flat bottom rowboat could have been brought right up against the step. Markham would have disappeared without a single footprint being left."

"You've thought of everything," I admitted. Belzer shook his head. "None. There's something wrong. Why was Markham dragged instead of carried? If he was killed by the man who kidnapped you, he would have been carried. He was killed by a small man."

I had no answer for that.

The taxicab stopped in front of a gray stone building. "Here we are," Belzer said. "I see more trouble waiting for you." There were two young women on the step. I saw with a thrill of pleasure that one was Louise Markham. She colored slightly as I stepped toward her and removed my hat. She extended her hand. She couldn't smile at the inquest into her brother's death, but she made it plain she was glad to see me.

The other girl brushed past her and threw herself into my arms. "Oh, Bill dear!" sobbed Muriel Benson. "You've got to help me! I've just learned the most awful thing about Jerry!"

Ashville Minister Reads Vows At Quiet Service

An informal but impressive wedding ceremony was performed Saturday, March 30, at 8 p. m., when Miss Isabel Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Graham of Ashville, exchanged marriage vows with Mr. Robert C. Miles, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Miles of 200 North Warren Avenue, Columbus.

Accent On Femininity

THE ACCENT'S on femininity in today's picture. You'll see the drawing used cleverly this spring and, even more frequently, we predict, this summer. It may gather the folds of a frock into place in back, or, as in the wool jersey coat shown, hold the fullness in front. Something else tricky is the new drawstring trousers, the strings tied at the ankles or below the knee, for sailing and bicycling. The coat shown matches the silk jersey frock, and do notice the flowers, fresh orchids and magnolia leaves. So often a corsage does more for a costume than jewelry, so here's hoping they'll be worn often with love.

Today's Garden-Graph

Simple Guide for seed planting

As the seed is planted so will the plant incline should be a well memorized proverb of seed planting. Certain types and sizes of seeds require certain procedure. Two right and one wrong way of planting seeds are shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

The correct depth for planting very fine seeds is shown in Figure 1. Seeds as small as one-thirtieth of an inch in size should only be planted four times as deep as their size or, in this case, one-eighth inch deep.

The correct spacing for seeds one-sixteenth of an inch in size is shown in Figure 2. In the case of seeds this size the correct depth of planting is one-fourth inch.

A very common gardening mistake is illustrated in Figure 3—seeds planted in a drill but too closely together.

Clay or other heavy soil should not be used to cover seeds. Instead sprinkle a light, friable soil over them. Use a soil which will not form a crust after being watered. This is the objection to clay for this purpose.

GARDEN FILLERS
If you have cedar or juniper trees or bushes, cut off and burn all the "cedar apples" you can find. These are the swellings which, before growth starts, suggest bits of liver on the twigs, but afterwards resemble many figured sponges. These "apples" are the "alternate stage" of apple rust, a disease which attacks the green parts of apple trees and injures the fruit.

About This And That In Many Sports

Basketball season will be wound up this week definitely when the annual class tournament will be conducted at the high school... Coach Roy Black hasn't said just when the event will be staged, but the understanding is that the teams representing the four classes will vie before the week is ended... Varsity lettermen have not yet elected an honorary captain for the cage year... This, too, may be done this week... Spring sports activity is lining up with the track team to start drills this week and the golf squad already in action... The track team should be a strong one with plenty of spring and field men available... The need for a track is the most vital question at hand***

There's talk going the rounds that efforts may be made to form a Circleville Booster Club with the development of athletics as its objective... It's done in many other places, so why not here, some of the persons back of the idea say... Circleville could use a Booster Club, since no effort has been made to organize an active alumni association***

Washington C. H. is trying to get two chestnuts into the fire at the same time, officials of the Blue Lion school filing an application with the Central Buckeye League for a place in that organization and at the same time retaining their South Central Ohio rights... Schools in the CBL of which Circleville is a former member include Delaware, Grandview, Bexley, Columbus Academy and Westerville... All of Washington's grid games, after the 1940 season, would be league affairs under the new program... The need has been cited for another team in the South Central Ohio with a couple of different schools being suggested, one of which is London***

The little bug has started to flit around for reorganization of the City Softball loop and just what will develop isn't known... Rumor has it that Cliff Miller, who operates Gold Cliff Park, is ready to put in a lighting system to promote night games if something similar is not done in Circleville... Sentiment among softball enthusiasts is that lights should be erected at the site of the proposed city park, but the folding cash necessary for the undertaking is sadly lacking... Some say the high school football team will play its games on the city park lot under lights that will be removed from the school property... This suggestion is considerably far-fetched, since much work would have to be done before the northend field would be suitable for football***

BEN HOGAN CONTINUES HIS GREAT GOLF GAME

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 1—Continuing his record-breaking pace, Ben Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., today was 1940 winter golf's biggest money winner. He took the $1,200 first money yesterday in the $5,000 "Land of the Sky" open tournament.

Hogan, who got 69s on both his rounds yesterday, now has won $6,438 as compared with $6,152 so far this year for Jimmy Demaret, of Houston, Tex. It was Hogan's third straight major tournament championship.

Hogan's 72-hole total was 273. Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, got $750 second money with a 276. Lloyd Mangrum of Oak Park, Ill., won $550 with a 276, and Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., and John Bulla, Chicago, got $400 apiece with 280s.

NEW LEADERS ASSUME PLACES IN ABC MEET

DETROIT, April 1—New leaders today ruled three divisions in the American Bowling Congress tournament following the heaviest single bombardment of the 40th annual championships.

Outstanding performance was registered by John Taylor, 31-year-old Chester, Pa., printer, who chalked up 14 successive strikes in romping to the front in the singles with a 700—good enough to win all but seven of the past tournaments. He started his run by striking out from the fourth frame of his middle effort and then continued it through the first five sessions of his final.

Vincent Lamb and Ed Gramlich, Peoria, Ill., smashed their way to the top in the doubles, recording 1303. Albert Novak, of Upper Darby, Pa., paced the all-events contenders with 1870 for sixth place.

Louis Sets Record For Frightening Opponents

NEW YORK, April 1—"I can't remember any man ever being afraid of me in a heavyweight championship fight," a puzzled Jack Dempsey said today adding a new note to the shouting and the tumult over the Joe Louis-Johnny Paychek title bout which by this time has been established among the major sports fashions. Beneath it all, however, there is a growing suspicion that Louis will be remembered as the most feared fighter ever to step into the ring, with Dempsey's statement lending tacit corroboration. Dempsey was supposed to have been the most awful punch-thrower for foes to face.

Ever since Louis reached the top the most heated pugilistic argument has centered around the relative merits of the so-called Dark Destroyer and the old Manassa Man Mauler, with little progress made in the debate by either the pros or the cons. They'll never prove that one, but from the way Louis' opponents are going there finally will be no doubt as to which fighter was the all-time champion in starting epidemics of the jitters among his foes.

A half dozen of Louis' opponents, including Paychek last Friday night, have been converted into physical wrecks by the fright that caught hold of them as they waited through the final moments for the current champion to begin swinging on them. If he carried an axe it couldn't be much worse for them to contemplate.

"I don't understand it," Dempsey said. "If a man hasn't got confidence in himself, he doesn't belong in there, and as far as I know none of my opponents ever folded up on me from fright. No, I never did fear anybody either. I was always dead certain that I could win—even in my second fight with Gene Tunney."

As a matter of fact, nobody

YANKS IN REAL FORM

HOUSTON, Tex., April 1—The New York Yankees told more like world champions today after bombarding the Houston Buffs 13 to 3 before a crowd of 14,594. The Yanks piled up six runs in the first innings. Buddy Rosar hit a homer; Red Rolfe a triple and two singles and Joe DiMaggio two two-baggers.

REDS TO MEET RED SOX

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 1—The Cincinnati Reds were to tangle again with the Boston Red Sox today after placing a beaming smile on Skipper Deacon McKee's face with a classy 3 to 2 win over the Bosox yesterday at Birmingham, Ala. Paul Derringer and Gene Thompson allowed only four hits and the Reds played airtight ball affair.

LIEB TO FLORIDA

GAINESVILLE, Fla., April 1—Thomas J. Lieb, former star tackle of Notre Dame and gridiron coach at Loyola University of Los Angeles, today was named head football coach at the University of Florida, succeeding Josh Cody who resigned to accept a post as assistant to Ray Morrison at Temple University.

WORLD RECORDS FALL AS STARS VIE IN GARDEN

Gregory Rice Of Notre Dame Outruns Lash And Maki

By Pat Robinson
NEW YORK, April 1—Although this is All Fools Day, we are not fooling when we say that the greatest middle distance runner in the world today is Gregory Rice of Notre Dame; that the greatest shot putter the world has ever seen is Al Blozis of Georgetown, and the finest hurdler to be found anywhere is Allan Tolmich, former Wayne University timber topper from Detroit.

These three proved their class before a capacity house in Madison Square Garden last night in the track meet of champions that saw world records fall before the amazing drive of the foregoing trio.

The barrel-chested little runner from Notre Dame proved that the Finns aren't the only race that can produce distance men when he ran the world-famed Taisto Maki into the ground and in doing so set new indoor world standards for the 2¼, 2½ and 3-mile routes.

Rice clipped more than three seconds from his own three-mile record as he set the new mark at 13:52.3, beating Don Lash of Indiana by about 10 yards and Maki by fully 30 yards.

Maki set the pace for two miles and then was jumped by Lash, who soon fell back to third place as Rice insisted on holding the second spot no matter who led.

Nurmi Amazed

Two laps from the finish Rice tore ahead like a man running the century and as the crowd stood and roared he widened up a big gap on the Finn. Lash, too, put on a spurt to pass Maki and so they pounded over the finish while Paavo Nurmi, the old-time king of all distance men shook his head in puzzled amazement.

"That Rice is the greatest runner the world has ever seen," said Paavo today. "Maki is a wonderful runner and so is Lash. But that Rice—he's simply unbeatable because nobody can run away from him and he can always finish like a sprinter. It only goes to prove that America can produce distance runners just as easily as it does wonderful sprinters."

Tolmich smashed a 20-year old record by eight-tenths of a second when he galloped over the 70-yard high hurdles in 8.4 and then took two-tenths off the world's 50-yard low hurdle mark by topping the timbers in six seconds flat, with Frank Fuller of Virginia, Larry O'Connor of Toronto and Jay Shields of Yale finishing in that order behind him.

Blozis warmed up by coming close to his own world record with a heave of 55' 1" for the shot put and then fairly shattered all previous indoor and outdoor marks for the 12 lb. and 8 lb. shot puts by tossing them respectively 65' and 78' ¾", adding almost five feet to the former mark and about eight feet to the latter.

Every event finished as predicted Saturday. Charley Belcher of Georgia Tech won the 500 special in 58.1 with Roy Cochran of Indiana, Bob Simmons of Nebraska and Dick Gill of Boston behind him.

John Borican of Virginia State nosed out Campbell Kane of Indiana in the three-quarters which was run in 3:08.6 and Chuck Fenske of Wisconsin overhauled Ralph Schwartzkopf of Michigan on the last lap to capture the 1½-mile run in 6:39.4, the fastest time ever made for the distance in the garden, but not quite up to the world standard.

East Beats West

And the East beat the West by mere inches in the mile relay in 3:19.8, remarkably fast time for the garden track. Jack Sulzman and Frank Ohl built up a five yard margin over Dick Gill and Doug Raymond on the first two legs but Charley Belcher made all this up against Roy Cochran and Jim Herbert nipped Charley Beetham at the tape in a stirring finish.

NUMEROUS IMPROVEMENTS ON CITY, COUNTY HIGHWAYS TRACED BY WPA

THREE PROJECTS ADD SIX MILES OF NEW ROADS

Kelly Discusses Amount Of Work Done Since Start Of Federal Agency

WALKS, ALLEYS FIXED

Culverts, Bridges, Public Buildings Modernized Under Program

Improvement of roads, highways, streets and alleys by Pickaway County's WPA workers, augmented by the addition of more than six miles in 1939, rose to 71 miles for 4½ years of the federal agency, it was announced Monday by J. L. Kelly, manager of the Columbus district of WPA in Ohio, in the first of a series of reports.

Three projects—county roads, Circleville streets and the state highway department—were jointly responsible for the addition of new mileage in 1939. Of the total since WPA started, 65.57 miles is in improved rural roads and 5.5 miles in urban streets and alleys, mostly in Circleville.

Principal sections rebuilt on the county project last year were almost two miles of County Roads 3 and 197, in Monroe and Muhlenberg Townships; 7600 feet of No. 76 in Washington Township, and parts of No. 18 in Perry Township, No. 43 in Walnut Township, and No. 42 in Washington Township. Seven masonry culverts and two bridges were built. The highway project got a start on improvement of 4.67 miles of Route 361, eastward from U. S. 23.

New Walks, Curbing

Circleville added 9,343 linear feet of improved streets and alleys in jobs which began in 1938 and were completed last fall. The sidewalk gang built more than a half-mile of new concrete sidewalks and more than a mile of lower type sidewalks, bringing the county total for this item to 3.68 miles. The curbing total rose to 8.16 miles and the gutter total to 1.93 miles.

Fourteen bridges have been built and three reconstructed or improved, and 39 culverts have been installed by the WPA workers.

Most WPA workers are engaged in construction, and on a recent count in Pickaway, 460 out of 532 assigned persons were building roads, streets, etc.

In the past, Circleville has used WPA construction workers to build storm and sanitary sewers, paint the Berger Municipal Hospital, repair and paint the city building, re-floor the fire department building, build a bridge and improve numerous streets. The courthouse also received a repairing and painting job.

Many Items Listed

Out in the county, in addition to numerous road and bridge projects, WPA workers built dams, picnic and swimming facilities in Wayne Township; improved and landscaped Logan Elm State park; re-modeled the Jackson Township school heating system, and constructed 672 sanitary outhouses.

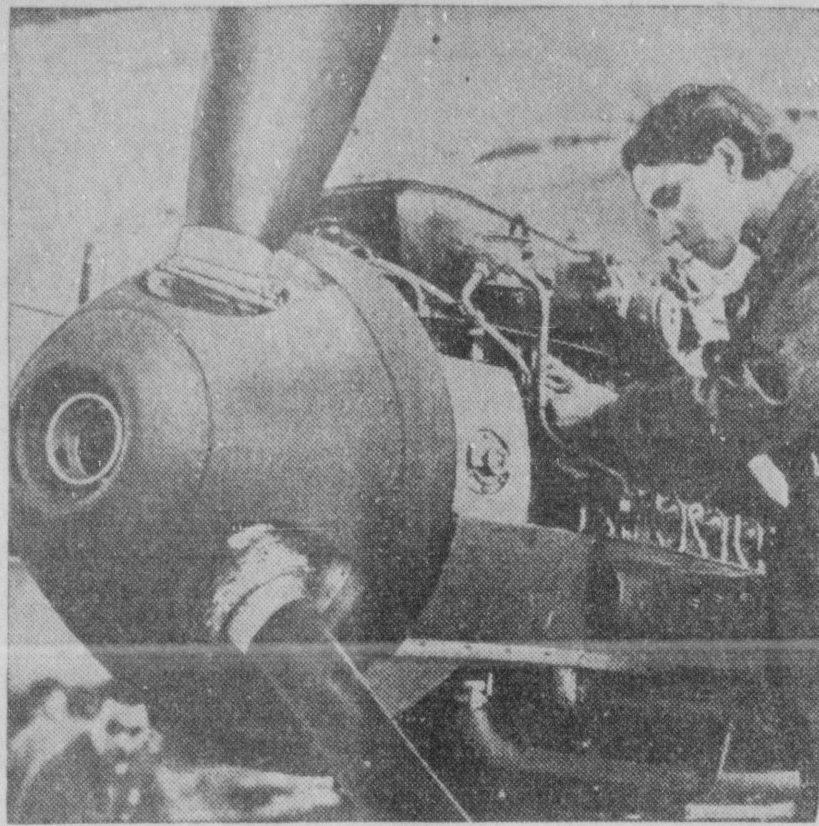

Miscellaneous items on the record include: 12 public buildings improved, 3,73 miles of sewers installed with 225 service connections and 50 manholes, and 3600 linear feet of embankments built or reconstructed.

OPERATOR OF COLUMBUS STORE KILLS BURGLAR

COLUMBUS, April 1—An ex-convict was killed by a blast from a 16-gauge shotgun by his alleged companion who served as a lookout was held in Columbus City Prison today after an abortive attempt to burglarize a cut rate drug store.

F. Harley Maness, proprietor who was working in a rear office after closing hours, heard the burglar break the front door, and after a shouted warning went unheeded, fired from a distance of 35 feet. When the ex-convict, identified as Roy W. Nafziger, 35, fell mortally wounded, Maness ran across the street and held the purported lookout, Lewis Blaker, 23, until police arrived.

31 First Grade Pupils Learn to Use Library

By Lyall Cryder

Are you acquainted with the proper decorum for the use of the Public Library? Thirty-one small people of the first grade of Franklin Street school are, for they were personally conducted to Memorial Hall the other day by Miss Ethel Hussey, their teacher, and instructed in the mysteries of borrowing books for home reading.

Leaving their school room about 2:30 p. m., two by two in a dignified line as be fitted so important a journey, the group walked to the hall, which must have loomed

THREE AUTOISTS ARRESTED FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Police Have Busy Weekend Checking Up On Traffic Law Violators

HEARINGS ON SCHEDULE

Single Speeder Ordered To Court; N. Court Street Infraction Cited

Circleville police had a busy weekend, particularly in a display of vigilance against persons operating motor vehicles when under the influence of alcohol.

Robert Smallwood, 29, Columbus, started the parade of those driving when drunk when he was arrested Saturday evening by the State Highway Patrol on Route 23 just south of the city limits and headed toward Circleville. The action of the patrolmen forestalled arrest by city police. Smallwood was lodged in the city jail pending a hearing before Mayor William Cady sometime Monday.

Arrested Saturday evening, John Poole, 27, Washington C. H., was also held in the city jail with charges of driving when drunk placed against him. Poole is to face a hearing Monday before Mayor Cady.

A bond of $115 was posted by Richard Buckner, 38, of Athens, following his arrest on South Court Street at 11 p. m. Sunday and charged with operating a motor vehicle when under the influence of alcohol. Buckner was scheduled to appear in Mayor Cady's court at 9 a. m. Monday.

The sole driver of the weekend traffic charged with speeding was George Bowers, 20, Laurelville, who was arrested at 7:45 p. m. Sunday on North Court Street. Bowers posted a $10 bond pending his hearing in Mayor Cady's court at 7 p. m. to face the charges of operating his automobile at 44 miles an hour on North Court Street.

CHARLES E. LADD DIES AT 70 IN WILLIAMSPORT HOME

Charles Ellsworth Ladd, 70, died Sunday at 11:45 p. m. at his home in Williamsport, influenza causing death. Mr. Ladd was a native of Madison County, born September 3, 1869, a son of George and Martha Jones Ladd.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Minnie Baney Ladd; the following children, Mrs. Edna Glass, Athens; Mrs. Inez Dean, Circleville R. F. D.; Mrs. Artie Rinehart, Milford Center; Charles Jr., Greenfield; Cora, at home; Mrs. Mary Davis of Circleville; Mrs. Margaret Noble of New Holland and Mrs. Augusta Helsel of Mt. Sterling; 16 grandchildren, and the following half-brothers, Joe, Ernest, Howard K., and George Ladd, all of Columbus; Sam of Mt. Sterling and William of Sunbury. The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Williamsport Methodist Church, the Rev. D. H. Householder officiating with burial in Westfall Cemetery, Wayne Township, by C. E. Hill.

With the spading fork, loosen the earth among shrubs as soon as the soil has lost its stickiness. Avoid deep digging in such places—just three or four inches deep is ample. Add some well-rotted manure before digging. If it is not obtainable, substitute a rich compost.

Each knew before leaving that a book should be presented at the desk, open, for the convenience of the librarian; how long a book might be kept in the home; how to open a book and care for it while in his possession.

Quietly they filed out, two by two, some still clutching in small hands brightly colored "Donald Ducks", which they had drawn, out and colored during their "seat period" of the afternoon school session, but all grown immeasurably in status as full fledged patrons of the library.

May I ask again if you know the accepted rules of conduct for the great privilege of using our Public Library? Thirty-one children of the first grade of Franklin Street School know, because they went there and found out.

Attractive and chestnut-haired, she sails April 6 to drive an ambulance for the American Friends of France, organized by Miss Anne Morgan, ardently Franco-ophile sister of the Wall Street tycoon. The other afternoon at a cocktail party, Miss Phillips was the center of an admiring throng who bombarded her with questions.

"Heavens, Bee," exclaimed a debutante chum, "here you suddenly announce you are leaving for France on this perfectly exciting adventure, and no one has had a chance to talk to you about it. Where in the world have you been keeping yourself all winter?"

"I've been taking a first aid course at Red Cross headquarters during the day," she said, "and working nights in a garage."

"In a garage! Whatever were you doing there?"

"Oh," said Miss Phillips, fingering her exquisite coiffure with a smartly manicured hand, "just learning to change tires. That's part of the job, you know."

WAR NECKTIES

When the War Department goes shopping for neckties, it goes the whole hog. It went to Philadelphia the other day and bought $36,225 worth of black neckties for enlisted men.

This was part of a general purchase of supplies, which included $13,597 for mosquito bars, $32,513 for bath towels, $985 for "moving of dope building," Patterson Field, Ohio, and $12,250 for embroidered shoulder-sleeve insignia for the CCC.

Note—This last contract went to Herbert Lehmann, Inc., of New York City. He is not the Governor, who spells his name Lehman.

HEREFORD SALE BRINGS HIGH BIDS FOR STOCK

Unusually good prices prevailed Friday when the Bea-Mar stock farm in Fayette County conducted a Hereford sale. One yearling bull, bought by Van Meter and Brown of Picketon, brought $619. Top price for a cow was $325 paid by B. R. Angle, Gloucester.

Several hundred buyers were present and the sale was held in the new sales pavilion of Sam Marting and S. C. Beasley.

ASHVILLE By S. D. Fridley Ashville, Phone 79

A. W. and Mrs. Boone and Dr. and Mrs. Cellers are vacationing through several of the Southern states. Master Lloyd Cellers, a 3 yearling is visiting with his uncle and aunt, Dan and Mrs. Boone, during the absence of his parents. . . . Paul and Harold Haas with their wives and Mrs. Sam Haas Columbus, were visitors Sunday at the home of Mrs. Lydia Brinker who is recovering from her recent sickness. . . . Sally Shannon who recently received an injury in a fall, is at her home near Duvall to remain there for a time. . . . Council will be in session this evening with a number of things up for action. . . . Three bids have been received to furnish sewer pipe for the East Side improvement. . . . We had for pleasant callers yesterday afternoon our old friends and neighbors, Mervyn and Mrs. Jennings, Columbus.

For his twenty-one year old auto truck, Ed Clendenin purchased here of the local registrar Clyde Brinker, Saturday, its 22nd license plate. The sale price of this machine at that time was $2100. About one-half this amount will purchase just as good a one now, so they tell us. And about the license plate sales here, Mr. Brinker tells us that the number sold is quite a few more than the sales up to the date of last year. And more, many plates will continue to be sold for quite some time yet.

Five years ago this April 1st morning and a reality, no April fool joke, Superintendent of water works Cecil Scott turned water into the village mains and service to 230 homes and business places, was begun. This has increased to 270 in use now.

And the number of gallons of water pumped at the station and measured by meter in the five years' service amounts to 52,356,900. Some day now when the weather suits for the trip, it will more than repay anyone to go out to the pumping station and inspect the Number One plant of all the village ones in the state and so named by the state inspector.

"One of the very best yet held" is what was said about the Community Club meeting at the Valley Creamery dining room Friday evening. The attendance was at the 40 mark several new faces showing, among them Fred Fornoff, a Capital City architect. After the splendid serving of a fine banquet, A. B. Cooper as Vice Chairman of the Club took charge as toastmaster and called on different ones for what they might care to say. William Fisher, Sr., responded by telling about how he had a few years ago started in the wholesale fruit and vegetable trade at the Capital City and how his business has grown until now has in his employ in the busy season, as many as fifteen helpers. Mr. Fisher handed to Ray Heffner, a vegetable grower of Walnut Township, a fine compliment by saying he was the best of the kind in the state. C. W. Squire told of their trip inspecting village picture show and municipal buildings and saw many fine ones. G. A. Hook told how a reorganization of The Club, in his opinion, was necessary and following his advice, was appointed with Hoadley Brintlinger and John Sark to see that it was done. Both Mayor Fred Hines and Architect Farnoff gave short talks. John Sark gave several interesting points about his recent trip to Texas. The ladies to be complimented for the fine banquet and service are Mrs. William Cloud, Mrs. Claude Ward, Mrs. Philip Daily, Miss Louise Stoker, Miss Viola Ward.
